German Troops Near French Frontier

The above was taken at Strassburg, near the French frontier. It was figured that this city would play a big part in a war between Germany and France. When this picture was taken, however, the present big war was not dreamed of.

Notes and Comments.

BY COL. W. P. WALTON.

The rapid and unwarranted increase of prices of foodstuffs has caused President Wilson to ask his department of justice to take some steps to protect the people from the men who are taking advantage of the European war to force tribute from the consumer. There is no good reason now, at least, for forcing up prices of the necessities of life to make living harder, and those in the conspiracy should be held to the strictest accountability.

Help Right a Wrong.

Former Governor Beckham was nominated for the United States Senate, according to official returns by a plurality of 6,806, his vote being 72,677, Stanley's 65,871, and McCreary's 20,257. The remarkable results of the race is that Stanley showed up so well and Governor McCreary so badly. For Governor McCreary to have entered the race was the merest toying with fate. He had an almost unbroken record for winning races, but his real friends knew that with his assurance from every stump that he mounted that if elected governor he would never ask for office again and the drift of sentiment to Governor Beckham, he could not hope to win against him. Then, too, a man of the governor's political acumen should not have been fooled as he says by Stanley's assertion that he would withdraw after he had succeeded in introducing himself for the senatorial race six years hence.

It is useless, however, now to speculate. The die is cast and Governor Beckham has been nominated, thereby righting a great wrong, and it is the duty of every Democrat to rally to his support and put the seal of his condemnation on the vile methods by which he was cheated out of his rights by so-called Democrats who betrayed their trust for money or other consideration.

There is no taint in Beckham's nomination. He was fairly and squarely endorsed for election by a large majority over his closest competitor and no Democrat can have any excuse to vote against him. His majority should be so large as to put to shame the man who pardoned the Goebel assassins and who thinks he has a claim on his party for doing so.

Former Senator and Governor Foraker, of Ohio, like Old Jim Jeffries, could not come back. His party retired him from the United States Senate several years ago for his alleged connection with the Standard Oil Company and he has since been in the background. He thought that the people had forgotten, however, and emerged from his semi-obscure to make the race for the nomination of that office again, but they were not as short of memory as he imagined and he was decisively defeated by W. G. Harding. Like a good many other public men, Foraker was caught in the tentacles of the octopus and must pay the penalty that all should suffer who accept money for political favors.

Governor McCreary was not endorsed for United States Senator so as you would notice it, but his appointment of Johnson N. Camden to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Bradley was to a very satisfying degree. For the term ending March 4th, next, he was nominated by 75,797 votes, leading the ticket several thousand and getting 23,075 more votes than his two opponents, Col. Bennett H. Young and David H. Smith together. The latter only got 18,399 votes. The Republicans nominated William Marshall Bullitt, of Louisville, against him, but he will beat him easier than rolling off a log.

Governor Beckham carried 85 of the 120 counties in the State and eight of the eleven districts. Somewhat of a sprinter is that young fellow, who has made the older heads sit up and take notice.

Congressman Helm reports that his nomination only cost him two dollars. It will cost him less than that to snow the Republican nominee, J. P. Spillman, of Harrodsburg, under such a pile of ballots that he won't be heard of any more.

The news agencies claim that the war news is so censored as to give little idea of the real situation. It does not matter much. Like the old woman who saw her husband and a bear in fearful conflict, it's one fight we do not care which whips.

Blundering State Officials.

The State has hardly recovered from the shock that two important amendments to the State Constitution, which were adopted by the people by a very large majority, were null and void because the Secretary of the State had failed to advertise the election of the same as required by law. These two amendments which were defeated by a blundering State official were a chance in our system of taxation and permitting the convicts to be worked on the public roads. It seems that we are to have another amendment wiped out by another blundering official. Lewis county by an overwhelming majority recently voted a bonded debt of five per cent of its assessed valuation for the purpose of building roads. When the county offered the bonds for sale the Louisville banks, after investigation, said that they could not afford to buy them, because there was no record that Gov. Wilson had issued a proclamation declaring that the amendment to the constitution, permitting a county to create a five per cent indebtedness for roads, had ever been adopted. This failure of Gov. Wilson is certainly as serious as the one of Secretary of State Creelius. If the courts hold in the Wilson case, as they did in the Creelius case, that the law was not complied with, and that therefore the amendment is null and void, it will be a terrific block to the road development in Kentucky. It will not only prevent counties voting bonded debts to the amount of five per cent of their assessed value, but it will also invalidate the act passed by the last Legislature of a five cent State tax for road purposes, as this provision was a part of the same amendment as the right for bonded debt. Truly the State of Kentucky has come to the disastrous condition when the voice of the people is thwarted by blundering officials. —Elizabethtown News.

"SEPTEMBER MORN"

Portrait Presented By Hobo Who Is Robbed of Clothing When He Fell Asleep On Station Platform.

(Lawrenceburg Record)

A tourist, sometimes referred to by the envious as a "hobo," met with a dire misfortune while in Lawrenceburg. He was flashily dressed and in his profession a top-notch. Robbed in a new suit, with a soft hat and new shoes and other apparel in keeping, the visitor cut quite a suds while in the city. He met the "Bell of Annerson" and became imbued with her rich loveliness. In fact, he drank in her charm to the limit and under her seductive inspiration fell asleep, with fond memories of a pleasant day. Naturally he slept soundly and although near the railway station, he was undisturbed by the clamoring of the passing locomotives. The sleeper was discovered by some nocturnal prowler, who was no respecter of persons or law and who was unmindful of the peaceful condition of the weary wanderer.

The "hobo" was not awakened as you might suspect by the loving taps of some vigilant policeman, but by the chilling blasts of a cool morning. Behold! his lovely and knightly apparel was missing. He represented a masculine "September Morn" incarnate. The ruthless despoiler had actually taken all his clothing and left him at the tender mercies of the elements and inquisitorial glances of a gathering crowd. Yea, even as was the mighty Ulysses cast ashore on the island and discovered by the princess, clothed only in the leaves of the forest, so was this twentieth century invader accoutred; a specimen of natural beauty, "Simple and unadorned."

Realizing his evident embarrassment and terrible predicament, a generous agent supplied clothing until he could escape and recoup his wasted wealth and raiment. The reporter was unable to learn the name of the tourist, his home or his destination and we only reproduce the facts in the case without embellishments.

Courtesy.

Be a gentleman, young man, for it will pay you a golden rate of interest. You will never get anywhere by returning surly answers. You might be surprised to know that if you should meet the president of a railroad company and ask him a civil question that you would get the most courteous reply. Walk into the biggest concern in any city and ask for the manager. He will meet you with a smile and return the most courteous answer to your blandest query. It is the ignorant cub in the country depot or the window washer in the big office who hands back discourteous answers. That is why they always remain cubs and window washers. The fellows who reach the presidency of railroads and the management of large concerns do so because they are gentlemen and always return the soft reply. It costs nothing to be a gentleman and besides, you will find that such a route leads down beside still waters and through green valleys. The churl plows through the mud of serfdom and breathes the lust of slavery.—Glasgow Times.

"THE SWEETEST GIRL IN RICHMOND." What has been said in the above article in reference to the politeness of young men has a very general application. Politeness costs nothing and is our greatest asset. The world despises a grouchy and a snob. They are two of the most loathsome and deadly elements that infest society. The practice of discourtesy is one of the most heinous crimes perpetrated against humankind. It is the wolf and loom that weaves most of the miseries of this world and swings the pendulum back toward brute force and inaction. It strangles hope, fosters misery and cultivates despair. It destroys vitality and nurtures disease. Its blighting and death-dealing effects are beyond computation and too great for enumeration. Therefore, let us be careful, cautious and prudent, and exercise courtesy one toward the other at all times. Young man, young woman, be polite and courteous. It pays. Be as polite to your inferiors as to your superiors. Meet each and all upon a common level. It will surely pay. Bear in mind the price of to-day may be a pauper tomorrow, and the beggar of to-day may become a millionaire. Nothing pays as large dividends as courtesy and politeness. It often dispels the clouds of adversity and plants the bloom of hope in the bosom of many a weary soul. Three young men were standing on a street corner in Richmond the other day when three young ladies in a buggy drove by. One of the ladies bowed very graciously and her face was wreathed in smiles, while the other two stared in a Sphinx-like manner. The young lady who had shown courtesy left a lasting impression upon the by-standers, one of

Dear Amy:—I've been to see Laura. You remember she and her husband stayed with us one night. She and Billy both liked my home so well that Billy "loosened up" and told Laura to go down town and buy all the furniture she wanted. Laura has just fitted out her house from the front door of the hall to the back door of the kitchen. She is the happiest woman in town.

With love, Lou.

P. S.—Laura asked me where to buy. Knowing she would get good strong, stylish furniture at lowest prices, I, of course, sent her to whom remarked: "There is the sweetest girl in Richmond. She is so polite, courteous and kind to everybody at all times. It does my soul good every time I see her." The others readily assented and the young lady in question was unanimously declared to be the "Sweetest Girl in Richmond." This alone is a compliment of which any young lady might feel justly proud. Do you know her? Can you estimate her real worth to this community?

Some Pacer.

The most sensational performance for a young pacer seen over the local track this season was a half mile by the two-year old gelding in the stable of J. O. McAllister in 1:03 1/4. The home of the youngster was formerly Richmond and he rejoices in the name of Rich Man. He is a son of Northern Man, 2:06 1/2, dam by Vice Commodore, 2:11, and paced a half in 1:03 1/4 Thursday afternoon, when the track was not at its best.—Lexington Herald.

Rich Man is a Madison county horse, and was bred by Mr. George Phelps, of White Hall. He was sold to Mr. McAllister at the Lexington sales last fall at a handsome figure.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR STATE AUDITOR

We are authorized to announce HUGH H. COLYER as a candidate for State Auditor, subject to action of the Democratic Primary, August, 1915.

Threat Did Not Work.

(W. P. WALTON)

There was a time when the word of former United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey was law in Texas, but the mighty has fallen greatly since his connection with the Standard Oil trust was disclosed. It was primarily the cause of his resignation, but other reasons were given. He went before the State convention the other day and offered a resolution denouncing National prohibition and woman suffrage, and said that unless it was adopted he would go before the people of Texas as a candidate for the U. S. Senate upon a platform including it among its planks. The very promptness and the majority with which the body sat down on the resolution must have made the former dictator realize how his power had departed.

Bailey is really a man of as massive mind as he is of body, but his excessive vanity, coupled with the oil incident, have been his undoing. His people have lost confidence in him and once lost it is hard to be restored. It is a real pity that Bailey threw away his chance to have attained a much higher position in his party's management, but the love of money has caused many a promising man to fall from the high pinnacle that an admiring constituency on which had placed him. Mr. Bailey may, with his gift of oratory and pleasing address, reinstate himself in public favor, but it will be a difficult undertaking.

The last Legislature passed a law adding disfranchisement to fine and imprisonment for carrying concealed weapons. The first conviction in Lexington under the law was before Police Judge Riley, who added the penalty to the sentence. The attorneys for the accused held that no judge of less authority than a circuit judge had jurisdiction in such cases and took an appeal to Judge Kerr's court, which sustained the contention and said that inferior courts could only hold the accused to the grand jury. The Court of Appeals will be called on for final decision, which justice would suggest will be in line with that of Judge Kerr. The law is a good one and no penalty is too severe for the coward who goes about as a walking arsenal, but his conviction and sentence should be by higher courts than police, magistrate or county courts. The matter is of too great importance for such tribunals.

With Judge W. R. Shackelford, Judge

James M. Benton, Mr. J. Smith Hays and perhaps others in the race for circuit judge in this district, there is going to be something doing in the fifteen months before the election of that official.

Kentucky is fortunate in having a Lieutenant Governor so competent to fill the higher office. The old Ship of State goes on her course just as smoothly as if Gov. McCreary was not away from the helm and enjoying the delights of Atlantic City. The Hon. Edward J. McDermott would be a mighty good man, too, for promotion by the Democrats of the State.

Tobacco.

Tobacco has taken on new life since rain.

The rains were of more value to tobacco than a possibly to any other crop. Tobacco around Paducah, Ky., has greatly improved during the last ten days.

In Brecken county, Ky., much tobacco, which has been growing since the rains, has been topped and promises to make as good a crop as any in recent years.

Bourbon County's (Ky.) crop has been greatly benefited by the rain of last week, but considerable was damaged around Millersburg by hail, but as a whole the rain resulted in much good.

While tobacco is now growing rapidly in Nicholas county, Ky., but little has been topped. It is estimated that there is about 70 per cent of the average acreage, and a short yield is expected.

Nearly a full fall crop is now expected in Woodford county, Ky., and with favorable conditions it is estimated to go fully 75 per cent of the last year's crop.

While the late set out tobacco in Bath county, Ky., is growing wonderfully well, the drought cut short the acreage, but it thought the quality will fully compensate for the shortage.

Growers of Garrard county, Ky., are now satisfied over the prospect for an excellent yield. Some plants are reported from four and a half to five feet high, the heavy, broad leaves meeting across the rows. Some fields were topped a week ago.

Tobacco is making a wonderful rapid growth in Clark county, Ky. Some early tobacco has been topped and is spreading nicely and will be almost up to the average per acre, while the late, if frost holds off, will make a good crop.

In Madison the crop is reported as doing splendidly despite the rains in some sections and of course this is not so good. On the whole the condition seems satisfactory.

Infection And Insect Bites Dangerous.

Mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which breed quickly in garbage piles, ponds of stagnant water, barns, musty places, etc., are carriers of disease. Every time they bite you, they inject poison into your system from which some dread disease may result. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It is antiseptic and a few drops will neutralize the infection caused by insect bites or rusty nails. Sloan's Liniment disinfects cuts, bruises and sores. You can not afford to be without it in your home. Money back if not satisfied. Only 25c. at your Drug gist.

Mr. A. J. Johnson went to Berea Friday and expects to go from there to Illinois.

Misses Katie and Annie Johnson gave a party Tuesday night in honor of their cousin, Miss Polly Ann Jones. About twenty young people were present and all had a jolly good time.

Born, to the wife of Wm. Hill, on the 15th, a fine son.

Horseshoe pitching has become very popular with the men as a pastime.

Mr. John Combs has about finished his new house.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF THE WAR

According to latest reports from the front the Germans are overrunning north Belgium and are within a few miles of Ostend. The report also says that 50,000 Germans who marched through Brussels are now in Ghent. The English consul at Ostend has advised all the English to leave that place, and most of them have departed for Folkestone. The Germans occupied Brussels without firing a shot.

Antwerp, an important port city, has been placed in a state of siege and all foreigners have been asked to leave as soon as possible. King Albert and the general staff are in the city, the forts are manned and the civil guard has been directed to act under orders of the military. Fast channel steamers have been requisitioned to carry non-combatants to places of safety. The forts are being made ready for a vigorous defense. The defenses of the city are considered impregnable. The German troops have been bombing Namur with heavy siege guns, and have partially invested that city, also attacking the French lines at Dinant, only ten miles from the French border.

An Impregnable Fort. It is estimated that an army of 500,000 men could not capture Antwerp in six months, and not then unless the food supplies ran low. The Belgian main army consists of about 100,000 men and the garrison of the forts is about 20,000. The army is large enough to hold off a much bigger army by the help of the forts and will be in a position to inflict great losses upon the enemy by sorties. In case of extreme necessity French and British war vessels can be brought up to the Scheldt and can contribute enormously to the defense of the city.

The French have taken ninety-one German field guns, nineteen autos and four flags, according to a dispatch received in Paris from Alsace. The French cavalry routed a column of German cavalry which was crossing the Rhine near Leopoldshöhe, near the village of St. Louis, in Alsace. The German losses were placed at 500 killed and wounded. Austrian troops are reported to be concentrating in great numbers at Leopoldshöhe. Paris reports that the only French territory invested by Germans is that which is occupied by a small body of German troops at Audun-le-Roman in the Meurthe-et-Moselle department.

Russians Invading Germany.

Official advices from St. Petersburg report that 500,000 Russians are now upon German territory. The German forces were defeated at Staluponen and the Russians have occupied Kovallen, Melkenen and also the important east Prussian town of Lyck, just over the Russian border and about sixty miles from Gumbinnen. The occupation of Lyck was made after two days of hard fighting, and was only effected after the German position had been stormed by strong Russian reinforcements.

Austria has protested to Italy against the latter's affording facilities to the fleets of Great Britain and France in the Adriatic, and there are indications that the diplomatic tension between the two countries is very acute.

The German prefect of Upper Alsace has warned the citizens that if the inhabitants take part in the fighting against Germany they will be shot, their local burgomaster also will be shot, and the localities will be demolished.

All British army reservists in the United States have been ordered to place themselves at the orders of English consular officers in their districts.

WARSHIPS OFF COAST

Naval Battle Off Cape May Is Expected.

Philadelphia special: Steamers lately arriving here report that the North German Lloyd steamship Brandenburg had met a German cruiser just outside the Delaware breakwater, presumably the Bremen, and was transferring general baggage. The Brandenburg left for Norway with a cargo of 8,000 tons of coal and general ship supplies. Other vessels brought news of seeing various ships of war off the Jersey coast. Some of them were warships of Admiral Craddock's English North Atlantic fleet. They are looking for the Brandenburg. Other German warships are reported along the Atlantic coast by wireless, and shipping men are looking every minute for a naval battle off Cape May.

The presence of both English and German warships along the Atlantic coast in the neighborhood of the breakwater was verified when dispatches between the English cruisers and between the Brandenburg and a German cruiser, believed to have been the Bremen, were intercepted.

Atrocities Are Alleged.

London special: The Serbian legation in London announces that Serbia has telegraphed to the Spanish minister at Bucharest, Roumania, accusing the Austrians of horrible atrocities. It is alleged that the Austrian commander ordered his troops to destroy the crops, burn villages and kill the inhabitants. The Serbian soldiers, it is said, are continually finding mutilated bodies of children, women and old men.

Mrs. Elmer Deatherage and guest Mrs. Vollenweider, of Ohio, were the guests of honor at a lovely one o'clock luncheon given by Mrs. E. B. Barnes on Tuesday.

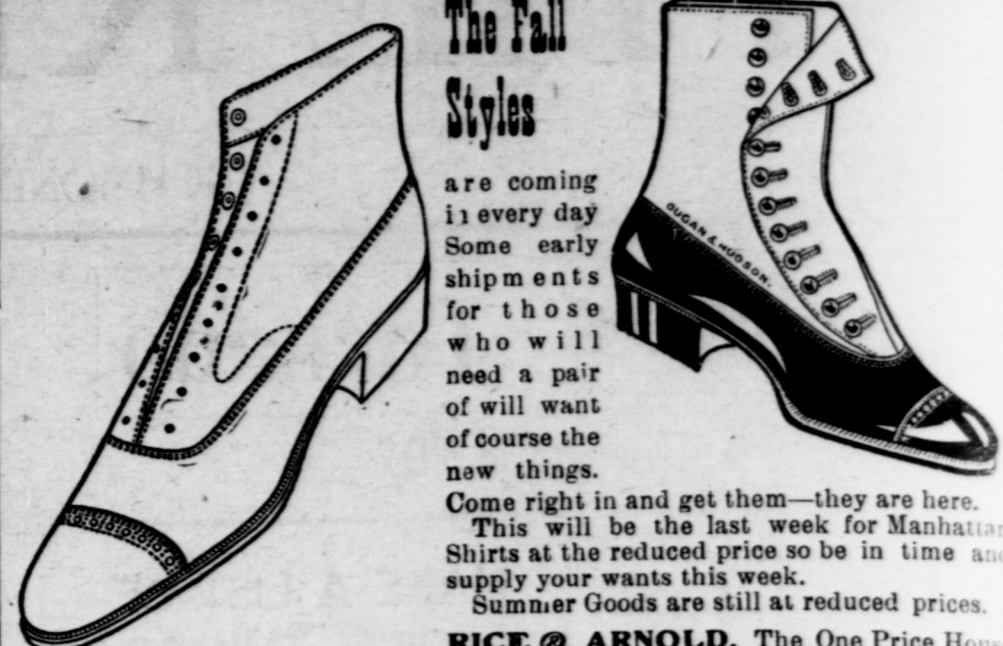

The delicious menu was served in courses and covers were laid for the following ladies: Mesdames G. B. Turley, Jr., S. P. Deatherage, James Deatherage, John Arnold, W. R. Boggs, R. E. Turley, Mrs. Galloway, of Shelbyville, Mrs. Elmer Deatherage and Mrs. Vollenweider.

Mrs. Mary Bates Miller entertained in a very charming manner on Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. C. B. Britton, of Washington, Mrs. F. E. Jennings, of Jacksonville, and Mrs. Mary Bennett Collins, of Bellingham, Washington. About twenty ladies were asked to meet the guests of honor and the hours were delightfully spent on the lawn where elaborate two course luncheon was served.

Mrs. Miller was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Miss Ellen Miller, and Miss Elizabeth Turley.

New Druggist in Town.

Mr. N. G. Guy, of Scottsville, Ky., has taken a position as prescriptionist at E. C. Wines' Drug Store. Mr. Guy comes with splendid recommendations, is a graduate of Valparaiso, Ind., College of Pharmacy and several years' practical work under J. W. Gayle, at Frankfort, Kentucky, no better pharmacist or cultured general practitioner exists. Mr. Guy has also had several years' practical experience in one of the large prescription drug stores at Hot Springs, Ark.

New and Terrible Instrument of War

It is held that France is the best equipped nation in the world for a battle in the air. Here is shown a French aeroplane bomb or aerial torpedo. It can be carried over a city or a battleship fleet, and if dropped with any degree of accuracy--and the French have been fairly accurate in their mimic warfare practice--can work incalculable damage.

Call For Volunteers.

While European countries are calling for volunteers in a conflict of war, Kentucky is calling for volunteers in a conflict of peace, a conflict which, if eventually and successfully waged, will insure to the people of this great Commonwealth a new era of peace happiness and prosperity. Kentucky has one blight and blot upon her record at this time, and that is the high percentage of illiteracy among her adult population. 208,684 of her men and women cannot read or write, and are thus deprived of the privileges of citizenship and prevented from enjoying the richest blessings of life. These men and women are mostly native whites. Many of them are people of superior intellect and some of them, at least, are ambitious. However much they may hunger for an education, the day school can offer them no opportunity. It must accommodate the children. The State is deprived of the service of these unfortunate men and women, and the school is deprived of their intelligent co-operation. Three weeks' instruction in moonlight schools would enable them to read and write, at least, and when given the keys to knowledge, they will proceed to unlock the treasure house for themselves.

For the sake of this great army of benighted men and women, for the sake of their children and their grand-children, for the sake of the cause of education, for the sake of a better and more intelligent citizenship, for the sake of a more creditable record when the census of 1920 is taken, for the sake of the Commonwealth, which, when crime breaks out or epidemics prevail or dark days come, looks upon its illiteracy as the cause and lament, "My people are confounded for want of knowledge," we appeal to every public and private school teacher to enlist and start a moonlight school on the evening of September 7, and to every citizen to seek out and instruct some one or more of our illiterates. "One thousand moonlight schools, fifty thousand adults enrolled, ten thousand illiterates taught" is our aim for 1914. Let all true and patriotic Kentuckians, men, women and children, rich and poor, young and old, white and colored, enlist for service in Kentucky's conflict against illiteracy.

KENTUCKY ILLITERACY COMMISSION,
By Cora Wilson Stewart, President.

Big Catfish.

Caught in the shallow water of the Big Sandy River and unable to make its way back to the Ohio, a 95-pound catfish, one of the veritable monarchs of the inland waters, met its fate above Offutt, Johnson county. It was slain by Marvin Crum, who drove it into a pool so shallow that he was able to strike it on the head with an ax.

The presence of the great fish in shallow water had been known to rivermen for several days. Many plans were made for the capture of the monster, but while the weather was hot it was not deemed expedient to undertake the catch.

The fish would probably have spoiled before it could have been dressed. Taking advantage of the low temperature, Crum went out after this unusual quarry, and after an exciting half-hour he succeeded in landing him.

Hospital at Winchester.

Dr. E. R. Guerrant is planning to fit up a hospital and operating room at Winchester for the free use of all doctors and surgeons in that city. Dr. Guerrant has purchased the equipment and the hospital will be ready for patients in a short while and will accommodate ten.

Horse Breeders.

Here is an editorial from the Washington Herald, which will be of much interest to the breeders of horses in Kentucky: "The European war opens up many avenues of profit to the people of the United States. One is the breeding of saddle horses. England and France will probably commandeer most of the high priced race horses of the two countries for war purposes, tremendously reducing the source of Europe's supply of mounts if the conflict lasts long. Unfortunately this country is not prepared to take full advantage of its opportunity. With the passage of the anti-racing laws in New York most of our big thoroughbred breeding establishments were broken up, stallions and mares being sent to Europe and South America. Now, with the prospect of a tremendous demand for the type of horse of which the thoroughbred is the progenitor, this country is not much better off than England and France will be when the war has depleted their stock."

An Object Lesson.

A farmer who lives near Hagerstown, Indiana, invited a number of his brother farmers to dinner not long ago. A delightful meal was served which most of the guests surmised to be squirrel, but after dinner the host confided to the assembled company that it was ground hog. These little "weather prophets," it appears, are very numerous in that locality and are doing much damage. The farmer simply gave his fellow citizens an object lesson in how to get rid of a pest and at the same time reduce the cost of living. This recalls the fact that an organization in Louisville had a good deal of fun a few years ago by giving a "ground hog supper." The guests were a little dubious as to what was coming off, but when the supper was ready it was found to consist chiefly of pork sausage.—Frankfort Journal.

Tobacco Growers to Borrow On Receipts.

Commissioner of Agriculture Newman has returned to Frankfort from Washington and is of the opinion that Federal statutes will either be construed or passed that will enable tobacco growers in Kentucky to borrow money on their warehouse receipts.

The tobacco warehouse receipts will be handled in the same manner as the cotton warehouse receipts are handled. In this way Mr. Newman believes that tobacco planters will be able to secure sufficient funds to tide them over until the European war closes. He expressed the belief that the Federal bank reserve board will be organized and got to work within the next month.

"Hub" Dawson Weds.

Herbert C. ("Hub") Dawson, formerly manager and until last week catcher for the Lexington base ball team of the Ohio State League, and Miss Mary Dozier, both of Versailles, were married on last Wednesday afternoon in Paris by Rev. J. R. Sims. The objections of the bride's parents to the marriage are said to have been the reason for the couple going to Paris for the marriage ceremony. Dawson is one of the best known athletes in the State, having been a star in base ball for a number of years. He played on the Richmond team in the Bluegrass League for some time, finally leaving to play with Minneapolis and eventually returning to Kentucky, and had been the backstop of the Colts until a few days ago, when he was released. The bride is a member of a well-known Woodford county family.

The new Way ~
A Hoosier Cabinet makes a Model Kitchen

Why Do 700,000 Women Own Hoosier Cabinets?

When you know that 700,000 women use Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets three times every day, doesn't it suggest to you that you need this drudgery-saver in YOUR kitchen?

Figure it out to yourself this way: Would they have bought these cabinets without convincing themselves that they SAVE MILES OF STEPS and hours of time? Would so many have bought them at all if users hadn't told others and thus influenced their friends to buy them.

Since this means that more Hoosier Cabinets have been sold than all other 128 makes of cabinets combined, isn't it proof enough that the Hoosier is the best cabinet on the market?

When you see how the Hoosier groups four cupboards around a large metal table and places 400 articles at your fingers' ends so you can sit down and work AND REST while working—you'll want one of these "White Beauties."

Come pick one out today.

BRILLIANT, STARTLING, BEAUTIFUL, SENSATIONAL HIPPODROME SHOW

Stupendous Six-Act Show Will Be Given Each Night In the One Hundred Thousand Dollar Live Stock Pavilion at the 12th Annual Kentucky State Fair

As the name implies, the Hippodrome show, to be given nightly in the $100,000 live stock pavilion, at the twelfth annual Kentucky State Fair, September 14-19, will be a big one and the best, according to advance reports, that the fair management has ever secured.

All of the half-dozen spectacles are headliners and a sensation in the show world. The list includes the wonderful and picturesque polar bear exhibition, in which a half-dozen of these monster animals are put through an amazing series of turns by the world's greatest bear trainer, Herr Albers, of Germany.

At the top of the great pavilion may be seen the Flying Thompsons, billed as "birds of the air." They are circus stars, who whirl themselves through space from trapeze to trapeze in a manner which causes the nerves of on-lookers to tingle with excitement and wonder.

A novelty is offered in the Eight Arabian Sons of the Desert, who juggle with their native weapons, do whirlwinds and tumbling and track acrobatics, sensational and amusing in the extreme. They appear in native garb and are a picturesque and pleasing feature.

The Rescue Troupe are called "demons on the wire," and prove their title by cake walking, dining, jumping the rope and other dare-devil feats while balanced high in the air on a slender strand. The Rescues are a foreign aggregation and appear for the first time in America at the Kentucky State Fair.

Straight from the London Hippodrome will come the Belclair Brothers, sensational acrobats, who will introduce the most sensational feat ever witnessed in their line of acrobats, a 15-foot flying hand stand catch.

And, prettiest of all, will be the Ballet Troupe of charming femininity artists and a musical accompaniment to the graceful feats they perform, and end their act with a charming novelty called "The Butterfly Scene." Special illuminations and dazzling costumes distinguish their turn.

The free acts which will provide constant entertainment for fair patrons on the ground will include the "thrill of the twentieth century," the death defying leap of "Dare-devil Hurley" and Mlle. La Belle, who rides down an incline of 60 feet in a machine which leaps 25 feet through space and throws her hurtling toward a trapeze from which Hurley swings to catch her in full flight.

The Kiltie Band of forty wonderful novelty musicians will be another spectacular adjunct to the fair. This is rated as one of the greatest Scotch Highlander aggregations in existence and will be by far the most stupendous and enjoyable musical feature the fair has ever boasted. Other bands engaged are Day and Sealy, of Louisville, and the Rice & Dore Marine Band, which will take prominent part in fair and street parades. There will be two or three other musical organizations on the pay roll.

EVERY FAIR DAY IS A BIG FEATURE

Entire Week of the Kentucky State Fair Lists An Alluring Array of Attractions

Every day will be "feature day" at the Twelfth Annual Kentucky State Fair, September 14-19, and the afternoon and night sessions will round out an even dozen periods of delight.

Monday, September 14, is distinguished by the eclat of opening and the honor of being dedicated to women and children, by which token bargain terms are offered and both the fair sex and the kiddies admitted for 10 cents at entrance gates and to the big 25 cent Hippodrome Show at night, and to the whole bewildering aggregation of Rice & Dore Carnival features on the Midway for 5 cents both afternoon and night. The co-operation of Prof. Holland, superintendent of the Louisville public schools has been sought and granted, and the pupils will be allowed a half holiday on the opening date of the fair.

Tuesday will be "Louisville Day" and all stores and business establishments will close at 1 o'clock. The $1,000 Roadster stakes will be the big feature Tuesday night and the most exciting event of the kind offered during the entire celebration. The premium will attract the best horses in the country and is the most popular contest listed. Mayor Buschmeyer, of Louisville, will be host of the day.

Wednesday is dedicated to "Good Roads and Eastern Kentucky." Col. Harry Summers, of Elizabethtown, and Senator Jos. F. Bosworth, of Middlesboro, will be chairmen of the day. The cheap rates offered for this date are expected to attract big crowds from the section thus honored. The $1,000 Light Harness Stake programmed for Wednesday night will attract such equine headliners as Kentucky's Best, Astral King, Jack Barrymore, Richelle King and others of the finest caliber who will make their first appearance in this event prior to the red-hot feature of the whole fair, the $3,000 Saddle Horse Stake listed for Friday, September 18.

Thursday is Governors' and Indiana day, and the chief executives of Kentucky and her neighboring state will be the guests of honor. A splendid horse show has been arranged for both afternoon and night of this day in the Hippodrome.

Friday is Fraternal Day and the full membership of many lodges are expected to do honor to the date thus honoring them. The world's greatest saddle horse stake of $5,000 Friday night will make this the banner date of the entire week.

Saturday is "Big Feature Day" and all over the grounds, in the Hippodrome and down the Midway sensations will be in order. The half-holiday accorded clerks and office folks will naturally bring out a record crowd and the exclusive feature offered will be the thrilling flight of Lincoln Beachey, the "Up-side-down" man, at 3 and 4:30 p. m. Beachey flies, rain, shine, blow, or calm, and not only does a death-defying dip, spiral glide and earth-touching swoop, but makes his flights with machine top-side downward.

The world-famous Payne's fireworks production for 1914 entitled "The Battle of Mexico," in conjunction with a spectacular outdoor circus, is a state feature secured by the fair management and one which will nightly add to the myriad attractions of the celebration.

PEERLESS TROTTERS, PACERS AND RUNNERS

To Smash Records and Strive for Rich Premiums, Stakes and Trophies Offered in Racing Events at Kentucky State Fair.

The racing program for the twelfth annual Kentucky State Fair, September 14-19, guarantees the liveliest, most interesting and inspiring series of events yet recorded at a like celebration and a record-breaking line-up of trotters, pacers and runners are in the line up for the splendid premiums offered.

There are six trotting and pacing stakes which will be of spectacular interest to horsemen. Four of these premiums are valued at $1,000 and two at $500 each. The four $1,000 stakes are for:

2:14 trotters.	2:11 pacers.
2:20 trotters.	2:20 pacers.

The $500 premiums are for 2 and 3-year-old trotters. The total number nominated for these stakes is 143, a listing of 25 per cent in excess of any like record in State Fair history. There are entries from Indiana, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, as well as from Kentucky, and there will even be representatives from far off North Dakota and California.

U. Forbes, the sensational year-old who broke the world's half mile track record at the Kentucky State Fair last season, has been entered in the two-year-old events. Other famous competitors are:

John Jacob Astor.....2:14 1/4 trotter	Major Russell.....2:10 1/4 trotter
Belle Ashland.....2:10 1/4 trotter	Lizzie Brown.....2:11 1/4 trotter
Gordon Todd.....2:07 1/4 trotter	Howell.....2:07 1/4 trotter
Col. Forrest.....2:07 pacer	Our Doctor.....2:08 1/4 pacer
Bonnie Boy.....2:08 1/4 pacer	Jachin.....2:08 1/4 pacer
Possibility.....2:08 1/4 pacer

The program has been so arranged as to admit of two or three harness races each day and on the last day of the fair will take place the most interesting event of all, the Gentlemen's Cup Race, for which a magnificent trophy will be offered. The State Fair track is the fastest half mile track in the country and is annually the scene of the greatest speed and class trials in the United States.

The class events will list:

2:12 trotters	2:09 pacers
2:15 trotters	2:13 pacers
2:18 trotters	2:17 pacers
2:24 trotters	2:21 pacers

The daily running races at the fair will include some of the fastest and best horseflesh then stabling at Douglas Park in preparation for the fall meeting which follows the week of the State Fair.

With this commingling of the "State sport" and the social intercourse which is typical of the grand stand gatherings the track events at the fair are by far the most popular and important event of any feature aiding in this important and popular celebration.

HER OWN COMFORT

By CECILIA HAMBURG.

"You did!" cried Johnny Philbig, tumultuously.

"Didn't!" asserted Georgie Driggs, emphatically. And then the fight was on.

It raged down the sidewalk and around the corner, and for a time the game of marbles was abandoned and forgotten. On the cement walk the little glass spheres reposed quietly, twinkling and waiting. They had not long to wait.

Down the steps of the Philbig home came Philbig himself, tall, immaculate and with head carried high. His polished shoe, descending on a red and white marble, shot into the air just as though it had been an ordinary, unshined, day-laborer shoe. Philbig's head hit the ground a whack that echoed.

There was chaos in his brain when he rose. The disturbing of his personal dignity was an insult that stirred Philbig to the depths and moreover his hat was dented, his coat was dusty and one glove was split. This was in addition to the physical pain that he felt. His fall having scattered the marbles, Philbig was unable to determine the cause of the disaster. He limped on his way with smothered rage within his breast.

"Hello, old man!" said Billicks at the station and eloped Philbig on the shoulder.

In a quieter condition of mind Philbig would have let Billicks knock him down and would have pretended to like it, for Philbig was angling for a huge order from Billicks' firm, and had already planned what to do with the profit. But just now his nerves were on edge. So he whirled away angrily from the too-familiar hand. "Good-morning, sir!" he snapped and stalked off.

"Grouch!" said Billicks to himself, indignantly. Several times on the way to town he repeated the word. Later in the day when the order came up for discussion and the senior member said he'd like to throw it to a friend of his Billicks told him to go ahead, because it made absolutely no difference to him whether Philbig got it or not.

Shortly after her husband's disastrous exit from home Mrs. Philbig sallied forth to attend to the day's marketing.

"O-uch!" moaned Mrs. Philbig when her thin-soled pump landed upon a particularly vicious little marble that had rolled to the edge of the inside walk. She hopped on one foot and looked for the trouble maker, but it had sped away into oblivion.

As she hopped she chanced to observe between the window curtains across the street the face of Mrs. Driggs, who was frankly laughing at the funny figure Mrs. Philbig made. A stout woman hopping on one foot with the other foot tenderly nursed in her hand is rather amusing. Mrs. Philbig knew this, and it added to her confusion and wrath.

"Cat!" she said in the direction of Mrs. Driggs. "I had begun to think she was a rather decent neighbor, but this shows what she is actually like. I shall blackmail her this afternoon when her name is voted on at the club. It is my duty to the community!"

Blackball Mrs. Driggs she did, and Mrs. Driggs' best friend saw her do it, and told Mrs. Driggs. That offended woman said, "That settles it!" and immediately clinched the bargain with the agent for the fashionable new apartment she had heard Mrs. Philbig say she was dying to get. And it was the only one left in the building.

"Had a frightful day!" Philbig told his wife, gloomily, when he came home to dinner.

"Don't mention it!" she returned mournfully. "So have I! What do you think? That hateful Driggs woman signed the lease today for that apartment we have just decided we'd take! And it was for a garage for the electric and everything!"

"Don't weep over that!" said her husband, grimly. "For there won't be any electric! Billicks' firm, after practically promising that order to me, switched over and gave it to Smith! There goes $7,000 in profits. We'll be eating sawdust for a while instead of buying electric, I'm thinking!"

"Why should we have such dreadful luck!" wailed Mrs. Philbig. "It's just bad luck and not a single soul to blame! Is that you, Johnny? Come, kiss mother—she's the only real comfort we have in all this trouble!"

Parson Rose to the Occasion. Uncle Jim Sugarfoot killed a fine rabbit for the entertainment of Parson Heavegrace, who was expected to dinner, but as rabbits were out of season he thought to avoid what might prove an embarrassing situation by making the parson think it was chicken.

"Brother Heavegrace," said Uncle Jim, when it came time for a second helping, "what part of de bird would you like now?"

With a merry twinkle in his half-closed eyes Parson Heavegrace replied:

"If you all don't mind Ah think Ah'll take de gizzard."

Overheard. Little Pitchers—Miss Mamie, I want to hear you head sound. Miss Mamie—My head sound! Little Pitchers—Yes; ma said you were rattle-brained and I want to hear it.

The Case of L. L. Cantelou.

The case of L. L. Cantelou, Clarendon, Texas, is similar to that of many others who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "After trying a doctor for several months, and using different kinds of medicine for my wife, who had been troubled with severe bowel complaint for several months, I bought a 25c bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After using the second bottle she was entirely cured." For sale by all dealers.

Papers and Politicians.

The Bowling Green Messenger thus explains its views as to the attitude of newspapers in political contests:

One of Kentucky's prosperous papers announces that it has not printed or accepted for printing any paid matter for candidates for office, and takes the position that a newspaper should advocate the cause of the man it believes best fitted for the place.

"This is as you look at it. The newspaper man is no more called upon to take sides in a fight and to give his space in the campaign than would any other business man. Of course there is a department in every paper that should not be for sale, and that is the editorial columns, where opinions are expressed. These should be unpurchased and unpurchasable. If the editor wants to give space for the advocacy of this man's cause, it is his right, but not his bounden duty. In the matter of party papers, it would be well always for the editor to steer clear in a factional fight in order the more easily to adjust himself to support the nominee of his party."

The Messenger's position is absolutely right and proper. It is the position that should be taken by every newspaper that purposes to run on business principles. A newspaper has just as much right to sell its space to candidates as to men in other lines of business or enterprise. Judgment should be exercised in this as in any class of advertising, but so long as the politician's "ad" is legitimate and "open and above board" there is no reason why a publisher shouldn't accept it at the regular space rates. In the past the newspapers permitted the politicians to "work" them to death with free advertising, which helped the politicians but did the papers no good. The State Journal is glad to see that the editorial point of view has changed to the extent that in most newspaper offices the candidates are paying for what they get.—Frankfort State Journal.

Doan's Regulates are recommended by many who say they operate easily, without griping and without bad after-effects. 25c at all drug stores.

Little Girl.

Little girl, you look so small,
Don't you wear no clothes at all?
Don't you wear no shimmy-skirt,
Don't you wear no petty-skirt—
Just your corset and your hose,
Are those all of your underclothes?

Little girl, when on the street,
You appear to be all feet,
With your dress so very tight
You surely are an awful sight;
Nothing on to keep you warm,
Crazy, just to show your form!
Little girl, you won't live long,
Just because you dress all wrong;
Can't you wear more underclothes?
Than your corset and your hose?
After awhile, I do believe,
You will dress like Mother Eve!

—Harper's Bazaar.
If you sit in a cool draft when you are heated and get a stiff neck or lame back, you will be looking for something that will ease the pain. MAKE STABLE FLOOR LEVEL

Inclined Plane Injurious to Horse Forced to Stand on It—Furnish Plenty of Bedding.

The stall floor in the horse stable should be level, inclined planes are injurious. The horse is forced to stand in a cramped position and if continued through a number of years generally becomes permanently disabled. Inclined floors are usually constructed to afford drainage, but it is much better to supply enough bedding to absorb all liquids than to have them seep away and ferment, later to aggravate ammonia fumes. Nine feet by four and one-half or five is the working horse size for stalls for the working horses. Stalls should never be six feet wide, for then the horses may turn and there is danger of casting.

The boards along the sides of the stalls should run lengthwise in order to prevent wounds from slivers. Boards running up and down break easier and are not as flexible. It does not matter so much what sort of a floor is put in as the care taken of it. Plenty of bedding must be used at all times. If cement is used, rough finish it to prevent slipping and crippling.

Preventing Disease.

Keep the stalls where pregnant mares are stabled clean and disinfected and you will go a long way toward preventing navel ill or navel disease in foals.

When you yawn a good deal in the daytime, feel dull, achey and want to stretch frequently it is an unmistakable symptom of malaria, and unless you do something at once you are booked for a spell of chills. HERBINE is a chill medicine that will prevent or cure the disease. It drives out the impurities on which the malarial germ thrives, strengthens the liver and cleanses the bowels. Price 50 cents. Sold by Wines' Drug Store.

BRILLIANT, STARTLING, BEAUTIFUL, SENSATIONAL HIPPODROME SHOW

Stupendous Six-Act Show Will Be Given Each Night In the One Hundred Thousand Dollar Live Stock Pavilion at the 12th Annual Kentucky State Fair

As the name implies, the Hippodrome show, to be given nightly in the $100,000 live stock pavilion, at the twelfth annual Kentucky State Fair, September 14-19, will be a big one and the best, according to advance reports, that the fair management has ever secured.

All of the half-dozen spectacles are headliners and a sensation in the show world. The list includes the wonderful and picturesque polar bear exhibition, in which a half-dozen of these monster animals are put through an amazing series of turns by the world's greatest bear trainer, Herr Albers, of Germany.

At the top of the great pavilion may be seen the Flying Thompsons, billed as "birds of the air." They are circus stars, who whirl themselves through space from trapeze to trapeze in a manner which causes the nerves of on-lookers to tingle with excitement and wonder.

A novelty is offered in the Eight Arabian Sons of the Desert, who juggle with their native weapons, do whirlwinds and tumbling and track acrobatics, sensational and amusing in the extreme. They appear in native garb and are a picturesque and pleasing feature.

The Rescue Troupe are called "demons on the wire," and prove their title by cake walking, dining, jumping the rope and other dare-devil feats while balanced high in the air on a slender strand. The Rescues are a foreign aggregation and appear for the first time in America at the Kentucky State Fair.

EVERY FAIR DAY IS A BIG FEATURE

Entire Week of the Kentucky State Fair Lists An Alluring Array of Attractions

Every day will be "feature day" at the Twelfth Annual Kentucky State Fair, September 14-19, and the afternoon and night sessions will round out an even dozen periods of delight.

Monday, September 14, is distinguished by the eclat of opening and the honor of being dedicated to women and children, by which token bargain terms are offered and both the fair sex and the kiddies admitted for 10 cents at entrance gates and to the big 25 cent Hippodrome Show at night, and to the whole bewildering aggregation of Rice & Dore Carnival features on the Midway for 5 cents both afternoon and night. The cooperation of Prof. Holland, superintendent of the Louisville public schools has been sought and granted, and the pupils will be allowed a half holiday on the opening day of the fair.

Tuesday will be "Louisville Day" and all stores and business establishments will close at 1 o'clock. The $1,000 Roadster stakes will be the big feature Tuesday night and the most exciting event of the kind offered during the entire celebration. The premium will attract the best horses in the country and is the most popular contest listed. Mayor Buschmeyer, of Louisville, will be host of the day.

Wednesday is dedicated to "Good Roads and Eastern Kentucky." Col. Harry Summers, of Elizabethtown, and Senator Jos. F. Bosworth, of Middlesboro, will be chairmen of the day. The cheap rates offered for this date are expected to attract big crowds from the section thus honored. The $1,000 Light Harness Stake, programmed for Wednesday night will attract such equine headliners as Kentucky's Best, Astral King, Jack Barrymore, Richieu King and others of the finest caliber who will make their first appearance in this event prior to the red-letter feature of the whole fair, the $3,000 Saddle Horse Stake listed for Friday, September 18.

Thursday is Governors' and Indiana day, and the chief executives of Kentucky and her neighboring state will be the guests of honor. A splendid horse show has been arranged for both afternoon and night of this day in the Hippodrome.

Friday is Fraternal Day and the full membership of many lodges are expected to do honor to the date thus honoring them. The world's greatest saddle horse stake of $3,000 Friday night will make this the banner date of the entire week.

Saturday is "Big Feature Day" and all over the grounds, in the Hippodrome and down the Midway sensations will be in order. The half-holiday accorded clerks and office folks will naturally bring out a record crowd and the exclusive feature offered will be the thrilling flight of Lincoln Beachey, the "Up-side-down" man, at 3 and 4:30 p. m. Beachey flies, rain, shine, blow, or calm, and not only does a death-defying dip, spiral glide and earth-touching swoop, but makes

By CECILIA HAMBURG.

"You did!" cried Johnny Philbig, tumultuously.

"Didn't!" asserted Georgie Driggs, emphatically. And then the fight was on.

It raged down the sidewalk and around the corner, and for a time the game of marbles was abandoned and forgotten. On the cement walk the little glass spheres reposed quietly, twinkling and waiting. They had not long to wait.

Down the steps of the Philbig home came Philbig himself, tall, immaculate and with head carried high. His polished shoe, descending on a red and white marble, shot into the air just as though it had been an ordinary, unshined, day-laborer shoe. Philbig's head hit the ground a whack that echoed.

There was chaos in his brain when he rose. The disturbing of his personal dignity was an insult that stirred Philbig to the depths and moreover his hat was dented, his coat was dusty and one glove was split. This was in addition to the physical pain that he felt. His fall having scattered the marbles, Philbig was unable to determine the cause of the disaster. He limped on his way with smothered rage within his breast.

"Hello, old man!" said Billicks at the station and elapped Philbig on the shoulder.

In a quieter condition of mind Philbig would have let Billicks knock him down and would have pretended to like it, for Philbig was angling for a huge order from Billicks's firm, and had already planned what to do with the profit. But just now his nerves were on edge. So he whirled away angrily from the too-familiar hand. "Good-morning, sir!" he snapped and stalked off.

"Grouch!" said Billicks to himself, indignantly. Several times on the way to town he repeated the word. Later in the day when the order came up for discussion and the senior member said he'd like to throw it to a friend of his Billicks told him to go ahead, because it made absolutely no difference to him whether Philbig got it or not.

Shortly after her husband's disastrous exit from home Mrs. Philbig sallied forth to attend to the day's marketing.

"O-o-uch!" moaned Mrs. Philbig when her thin-soled pump landed upon a particularly vicious little marble that had rolled to the edge of the inside walk. She hopped on one foot and looked for the trouble maker, but it had sped away into oblivion.

As she hopped she glanced to observe between the window curtains across the street the face of Mrs. Driggs, who was frankly laughing at the funny figure Mrs. Philbig made. A stout woman hopping on one foot with the other foot tenderly nursed in her hand is rather amusing. Mrs. Philbig knew this, and it added to her confusion and wrath.

"Cat!" she said in the direction of Mrs. Driggs. "I had begun to think she was a rather decent neighbor, but this shows what she is actually like. I shall blackball her this afternoon when her name is voted on at the club. It is my duty to the community!"

Blackball Mrs. Driggs she did, and Mrs. Driggs's best friend saw her do it, and told Mrs. Driggs. That offended woman said, "That settles it!" and immediately clinched the bargain with the agent for the fashionable new apartment she had heard Mrs. Philbig say she was dying to get. And it was the only one left in the building.

"Had a frightful day!" Philbig told his wife, gloomily, when he came home to dinner.

"Don't mention it!" she returned mournfully. "So have I! What do you think? That hateful Driggs woman signed the lease today for that apartment we have just decided we'd take! And it has a garage for the electric and everything!"

"Don't weep over that!" said her husband, grimly. "For there won't be any electric! Billicks's firm, after practically promising that order to me, switched over and gave it to Smith! There goes $7,000 in profits. We'll be eating sawdust for a while instead of buying electric, I'm thinking!"

"Why should we have such dreadful luck!" wailed Mrs. Philbig. "It's just bad luck and not a single soul to blame! Is that you, Johnny? Come, kiss mother—she's the only real comfort we have in all this trouble!"

Parson Rose to the Occasion. Uncle Jim Sugarfoot killed a fine rabbit for the entertainment of Par-son Heavegrace, who was expected to dinner, but as rabbits were out of season he thought to avoid what might prove an embarrassing situation by making the parson think it was chicken.

"Brother Heavegrace," said Uncle Jim, when it came time for a second helping, "what part of de bird would you like now?"

With a merry twinkle in his half-closed eyes Parson Heavegrace replied: "If you all don't mind Ah think Ah'll take de gizzard."

The Case of L. L. Cantelou. The case of L. L. Cantelou, Clarendon, Texas, is similar to that of many others who have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "After trying a doctor for several months, and using different kinds of medicine for my wife, who had been troubled with severe bowel complaint for several months, I bought a 25c bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After using the second bottle she was entirely cured." For sale by all dealers.

Papers and Politicians.

The Bowling Green Messenger thus explains its views as to the attitude of newspapers in political contests:

One of Kentucky's prosperous papers announces that it has not printed or accepted for printing any paid matter for candidates for office, and takes the position that a newspaper should advocate the cause of the man it believes best fitted for the place.

"This is as you look at it. The newspaper man is no more called upon to take sides in a fight and to give his space in the campaign than would any other business man. Of course there is a department in every paper that should not be for sale, and that is the editorial column, where opinions are expressed. These should be unpurchased and unpurchasable. If the editor wants to give space for the advocacy of this man's cause, it is his right, but not his bounden duty. In the matter of party papers, it would be well always for the editor to steer clear in a factional fight in order the more easily to adjust himself to support the nominee of his party."

The Messenger's position is absolutely right and proper. It is the position that should be taken by every newspaper that purposes to run on business principles. A newspaper has just as much right to sell its space to candidates as to men in other lines of business or enterprise. Judgment should be exercised in this as in any class of advertising, but so long as the politician's "ad" is legitimate and "open and above board" there is no reason why a publisher shouldn't accept it at the regular space rates. In the past the newspapers permitted the politicians to "work" them to death with free advertising, which helped the politicians but did the papers no good. The State Journal is glad to see that the editorial point of view has changed to the extent that in most newspaper offices the candidates are paying for what they get.—Frankfort State Journal.

Kentuckian Escapes Operation By Using Mayr Stomach Remedy.

Mr. Burnett Says Wonderful
Treatment Saved His Life With Few Doses.

Horace Burnett of Somerset, Ky., was a sufferer from stomach disorders for a long time. His condition became highly serious and he feared an operation.

He took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and got swift results. In a letter telling his experience he wrote: "Your treatment has certainly helped me wonderfully. I took my fifth dose last night and it brought good results. I have one more dose to take and I think I will be well. Your tonic is wonderful. I can eat anything now that I want to. I can never get through thanking you for your medicine, for I know it saved my life, for I have tried all the doctors and they said I would have to operate."

Such letters come from all parts of the country. This remedy is known everywhere for its remarkable results. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives. Because of the remarkable use of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S Go to Perry's Drug Store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing in cases they know about—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-56 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful results.

WOMEN DESERVE FURTHER ADVANCE

Review of Old Battle For Property Rights.

SAME OBJECTIONS URGED.

By VIRA BOARMAN WHITEHOUSE.

WE all agree that women are better off today than they have ever been since the beginning of our civilization. Why then aren't we content? Unfortunately some of us are. But some of us have been content ever since the days when we were denied souls. If it had not been for the discontented ones we should still be soulless as well as voteless. When we wanted to gain the privilege of souls we were met with certain objections; when we revolted against the power of life and death which the Roman father or husband held over us we were met with similar opposition; when we ventured to think we should own and control our own property, here they came again, our old opponents, the objections to women's advance.

And now today, when we are asking for the political equality which all men in this country have, the very same old enemies are marshaled in force against us.

A Debate in 1868. Here are some extracts from a debate in the English house of commons in 1868. They might well be used today as anti-suffrage arguments: "This is a measure which is calculated to destroy that good feeling which it is so desirable should exist between husband and wife."

"It will add another element to deter young men from entering into matrimony by introducing new seeds of discord."

"A proposal such as that now made would result if passed into law in turning England into a beer garden and every woman into a shrew."

An honorable member, Mr. Lopes, moved the rejection of this measure, saying, "There are not 5 per cent of the married women of England in favor of the bill."

Another honorable gentleman, defending the bill, felt that instead of lessening the respect of men for women "with an increase of independence such as this bill will secure there will be an increase of respect for women—of real respect—which is a thousand times more valuable than the conventional politeness which it is always so easy to pay."

Her Own Not Hers. Arthur Hobbhouse, in writing somewhat later on the same subject, said, "No wonder if by all who are timid, by all who are superstitious, by the majority of those who obey sentiment rather than reason and by many who possess a large share of reason and judgment, any alteration of such a law is regarded, according to the character of the mind, with fear, with horror, with disgust or with calm disapproval."

But the measure under discussion was not a woman suffrage bill, as one might well suppose. It was a bill to allow married women to own their own property.

That mysterious and sacred thing, the common law, decreed that the personal property of a married woman, whether possessed before or acquired after her marriage, was not hers at all, but was the absolute possession of her husband.

Old Law "Not Harsh." Whatever our view on the subject is today, Lord Penzance found in 1868 that "not only, in short, is the common law not unduly harsh in the case of the married woman, but it is entirely in accordance with the feelings of the people of this country and proceeds on the intelligible principle that the wife is the weaker vessel and that the husband should be at the head of the establishment."

We had, however, a liberal defender, who explained that "the common law was founded on the physical incapacity of the wife to perform the feudal duties in times when property was inseparably connected with military services," those times presumably having passed away.

In America the same opposition was encountered, and even greater disasters were predicted. In Ohio in 1850 it was urged against a similar bill that "to adopt it would throw a whole population, morally and politically, into confusion," and that "this doctrine of separate estate will stifle all the finer feelings and blast the brightest, fairest, happiest, hopes of the human family."

It is now argued that women will be no better off with the ballot and that the majority of women do not want to vote. But neither did they want to own their property. The objections to woman suffrage have been well summed up in this nineteenth century debate: "Sir, have we not got along for 1,800 years, and shall we change now?"

The Plague of War.

Once upon a time Korea and China fought a war with ironclads and cannon. The Western world did not even hear of it till the Koreans had lost the art of making both ironclad ships and cannon, and were wearing cotton wadding for armor and fighting with bows and arrows. In the days of Korea's early glory a war in one part of the world didn't affect other parts of the world. Nowadays it is different. A single day's war news closes the stock exchanges of Europe and America and brings to a standstill the machinery of trade. Schedules of ocean liners are annulled and letters of credit become valueless, leaving thousands of American travelers with their pockets full of perfectly good equivalents of gold coin stranded in the European capitals and wondering how they'll get home. War nowadays is a plague against which there is no inoculation. When it breaks out upon a large scale it affects the whole world. Wheat has risen in America and all food values will doubtless rise, creating a market favorable to the agricultural producer, but counterbalanced by the inevitable readjustment of prices in accordance with the value of farm products. From all points of view, war is a tragedy and the present tragedy in Europe seems likely to be the greatest that the world has ever known.

BEST METHOD FOR CABBAGE

Culinary Expert Tells How the Vegetable May Be Served Up in Appetizing Way.

Cabbage, and other vegetables that form into heads, should be soaked in cold water, heads down, to which salt or a little vinegar has been added. This will drive out worms or insects if any are in hiding among the leaves. Half an hour is long enough to allow the vegetables to remain in the water. Take one-half or one-quarter of the head of cabbage, according to quantity required, and shave it down fine, as for slaw; put it in very cold water, enough to just cover it, and let it stand until crisp; pour off this water and add fresh cold water to barely cover it and place over the fire; cover and bring quickly to boiling; then remove cover and boil rapidly until it begins to look clear; pour off the water, season to taste with salt and pepper, add butter generously, a tablespoonful to two cups of cabbage, and turn into a heated dish and serve. Hot cream, cream sauce, sour cream sauce or cheese sauce may be served with it, but it is very delicate and pleasing to the taste served plain with butter and seasoning. If any is left over chill thoroughly and serve as a salad with green peppers or leftover string beans or peas or fresh tomatoes, using French dressing.—Lida Ames Willis.

If you have difficulty in making your pancakes or griddle cakes brown to a turn add a spoonful of sugar or half a spoonful of molasses to the batter and note how easily and prettily they brown. The bit of sugar or molasses does not change the taste or proportions of other ingredients.

Waxed paper is a good thing to wrap about the articles of food before placing them in the refrigerator. It should also be wrapped about cheese and like edibles that must be kept in a dry place.

Fly specks and dirt on mirror surfaces may be rubbed off with a cream made of whiting and alcohol.

When the strainer on the kitchen faucet refuses to work well try a vinegar bath. The deposit from the water has clogged the tiny openings, and no amount of brushing will clear them so well as an overnight soaking in a cupful of vinegar.

Canadian Pudding. Make sauce of one quart sliced apples, one-third cup sugar, one-third cup water, a little nutmeg; stew gently, then pour into buttered pudding dish and pour over it the following batter: One pint flour, one egg, salt, one cup milk, two level teaspoons sugar, one-half tablespoon melted butter, one teaspoon cream of tartar, one-half teaspoon soda; bake in a moderate oven; serve with the following sauce: One-half pint boiling water, one-half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon cornstarch, teaspoon of butter; soak this till it thickens, then cool before adding one cup sugar beaten with yolks of two eggs. Lastly, whip in stiffly, beaten whites of eggs.

Braised Liver With Bacon. For a three-pound piece of liver have ready one onion cut in thin slices, one-half cupful of carrot dice, one-half cupful of bacon cubes, one-half cupful of tomato, a bit of bay leaf, sprig of parsley, one-half teaspoonful of whole peppers and pinch of thyme. Place the liver on a bed of vegetables, lay thin slices of bacon over the top, cover and cook slowly one hour, basting with bacon fat and water. Strain the liquor remaining in pan and serve with the liver. If the liquid is too thin, thicken with flour.

Raspberry Cakes. A delicious baked dessert calls for one pint of red raspberries. Sprinkle with a little powdered sugar, and when they have stood for an hour drain off a cupful of juice. Now make a batter with two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half cupful of granulated sugar, the berry juice, one and one-half cupfuls of flour into which has been sifted one teaspoonful of baking powder and the beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in muffin tins and serve with crushed raspberry sauce.

Marshmallow Pudding. One-half pound marshmallows, each cut into three or four pieces with scissors into a dish you will serve it from. Add one can shredded pineapple and let stand several hours. Just before serving cover top with whipped cream. This is truly delicious. You can substitute any other fruit, but I am very fond of the pineapple.

Raspberry Whip. Simplest of all raspberry desserts is raspberry whip. This calls for the whites of egg beaten very light, flavored to taste with powdered sugar and flavored with the fresh juice of crushed raspberries. It should be mixed just before serving.

To Remove Gloss. Gloss can be removed from black silk by sponging it with cold coffee and ammonia. A teaspoonful of ammonia to a cupful of coffee is the right quantity.

The Twenty Year Test.

"Some twenty years ago I used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Geo. W. Brook, publisher of the Enterprise, Aberdeen, Md. "I discovered that it was a quick and safe cure for diarrhoea. Since then no one can sell me anything said to be 'just as good.' During all these years I have used it and recommended it many times, and it has never disappointed anyone." For sale by all dealers.

The Telephone Always on Guard

THERE is never a moment, day or night, when your Bell Telephone is not a protection.

In the busy hours of the day and the silent watches of the night, the switchboard operator is always ready to answer a call.

The telephone is as much a part of the protective system of each community as the police and fire departments.

There's always a feeling of security in the knowledge that close at hand is the means of calling aid quickly when you most need it.

More than 70,000 cities and towns are protected day and night by the Bell Telephone system. 7,500,000 Bell telephones are on guard. In thousands of rural communities it is the chief reliance in emergencies and times of danger.

How Long, Oh, Lord, How Long?

A doddering old man, from a sin stained race, ruling over a nation of different people and mixed blood, declared war on a country less in size and wealth and civilization than Kentucky. A neurotic man of mediocre ability, claiming by Divine right to rule all the Russias, met that declaration of the ancient Hapsburg with the announcement that he would go to the aid of his people's blood kin. The War Lord of Germany, as brilliant as erratic, seized the opportunity, in all probability fomented if not created by him, to strike at Russia.

And so by the act of these three men the fields of Europe are utilized; the factories of Europe are silent; the markets of the world are closed; the very civilization of the world is threatened.

No consultation was there by the Emperor of Austria, nor by the Czar of Russia, nor by the Emperor of Germany with those over whom they reign. France, the Republic, met the threat of Germany as only it was possible for it to have been met—by the mobilization of her troops, in response to the edict of its President. England, a constitutional monarchy, more of a Republic than France, and as much almost of a Democracy as the United States, preserved its faith, and in response to the action of its House of Commons, in essence the most representative governing body of any nation, declared war on Germany. So France the Republic and England, the Democracy, are involved, and Belgium and Luxemburg and Holland, even far-away Japan, will be drawn into the conflagration started by the three monarchs of Austria, Russia and Germany.

And all the world will be affected. We of America may not yet tell how or even when or to how great an extent we and our brethren of Canada and our neighbors of Mexico will be involved. How long will it be that the people let remain in the hands of one or three men, different only by accident of birth from other men, such power of life and death?—Lexington Herald.

SOME SIZZLING SHOTS FROM A TENNESSEE MAN

Why Liquor Hasn't a Chance In World Against Him.

Away down in Tennessee there lives a business man who is mighty glad that the Cincinnati Neal Institute is on earth. Once upon a time he "drank like a fish." He all but wrecked both his health and business by his devotion to John Barleycorn. Now he hates old John with a bitter hatred. He heard of the wonderful results of the Neal Treatment for the drink habit, came to Cincinnati and spent three days under the roof of the old Captain C. M. Holloway home in Avondale. They were days that he counts about the best in his life. Writing a letter of appreciation to Dr. Geo. E. Neal, this Tennesseean puts himself on record in this enthusiastic way:

"Personally, I feel fine, work as hard as I ever did, eat well, sleep well, have perfect control of my nerves and know exactly what I am doing every minute of the day. I feel quite sure that I will never take another drink of any kind of liquor. What it has done for me is plenty and I am going to try and get back what I lost and missed through toying with the damnable stuff."

Many others have had a like experience at the Neal Institute, where three days of the Neal Treatment—a harmless vegetable remedy taken internally—will change craving liquor desire to intense dislike for everything alcoholic.

Your own investigation or that of your own physician is invited. This magnificent work of changing excessive drinkers into teetotalers is one that appeals to every one with hearts big enough to appreciate what it means to save the victim of drink from the craving which spells ruin for himself and unhappiness for all near and dear to him. INVESTIGATE! Write for our booklets. There is no publicity. Address, The Neal Institute, 901 Maple avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio. Telephone 4020. Other Ohio Neal Institutes at Columbus and Cleveland.

The peach crop in Kentucky will be the largest in years.

Walter H. Bridges, of Montgomery, sold to Godfrey Priest, of New York, a 4-year-old mare by Highland Gay, for $400.

Charles Meng, of North Middletown, bought 33 head of 1,000-pound cattle from Sam Keaton, of Montgomery county, at $12.50 per head.

The Burley Tobacco Society's last report states that the shrinkage in the crop this year will be 15 per cent, or about 32,000,000 pounds, due to the drought at the time the plants were set out, and afterward.

Col. Jack Chinn, known all over the country as an owner and breeder of race horses, will sell his string of horses and retire from the turf this fall.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture the hen crop has reached $300,000,000 a year, enough to build two Panama Canals.

J. W. Major, of Lawrenceburg, sold to Wakefield Bros., of Shelbyville, 138 78-lb lambs at $7.14.

Wm. H. Whaley, Jr., of Paris, bought 1,083 sheep at Winchester from different parties at $4.00 to $4.70.

WOMEN, VOTES AND IGNORANCE

Education of Femines Is Practical Today.

ANTI-SUFFRAGETTES WRONG

By VIRA BOARMAN WHITEHOUSE.

THE anti-suffragists say that women shouldn't vote because the ignorant vote would thereby be doubled.

This objection seems to mean many things in the minds of the anti-suffragists.

Undoubtedly there are people who believe that women as a class are less educated than men and therefore undesirable as voters. These people may be reminded that the state makes education compulsory for girls as well as for boys up to the age of fourteen. After the end of the common school or the compulsory education period the state provides high schools for all who can and will attend them. One-third more girls than boys graduate from the high schools of the country. In New York state, although the proportion is less (about 74,000 girls to 61,000 boys), it is still greatly in favor of the girls.

It is only fair to judge of the education of the future voters by their attendance at the public schools, as 92 per cent of the population is educated in this way.

Imposing Facts.

When it comes, however, to colleges the women do not lag behind. Forty-four per cent of the college degrees (A. B.) were taken by women in 1910, and the proportion is constantly increasing. They are also carrying off a large percentage of college honors. As far as scholastic education, through school, high school and college, has a value, the women of this country are on the whole even better fitted to vote than the men.

In the opinion of some anti-suffragists, however, education in schools and colleges is not the sort of experience that makes of a man or a woman the right kind of voter. Mrs. William Forster Scott, in a pamphlet issued by the New York State Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, says that only by life in the office, street, market and shop does the voter get the training which fits him in some degree for the exercise of his duty.

This standard of qualification would exclude all those women of great culture who have the leisure and perhaps the desire to inform themselves on public matters—the very women who say in a drawing room with such confidence, "Of course we educated women should vote, but to educate the ignorant vote!"

Qualified to Vote.

By this same standard, however, the (estimated) 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 working women of the country share with men to the full that experience of the office, street, market, etc., which is considered so necessary for the training of the voter. As the entire female population of voting age of this country is about 24,500,000, more than one-third of them are already qualified to vote by the standard set by those very people who are opposed to all women voting.

Benefit of Training.

They are similarly succeeded by girls who will work five or ten years and then retire to domestic lives of their own. All this endless chain of temporary working women, counting up in a generation to many times 9,000,000, are having the benefit of that very training and experience which alone, according to Mrs. Scott, can fit the voter "for the exercise of his duty."

Miss Lucy J. Price, speaking against woman suffrage at the congressional committee hearing in Washington, December, 1913, defined the ignorant vote which it is so desirable not to understand what it is voting about.

The women who are in question have been through an apprenticeship which prepares them for the duties of their own lives. They become purchasers of the country. They spend in the markets and shops as wisely as they can the wages or salaries of their husbands.

Of certain aspects of politics such women cannot be considered ignorant. In the cities they are familiar with all the conditions which affect their homes and the lives of their children, conditions which are in the hands of politicians who are elected by popular vote.

They know whether the food they buy in the markets is properly protected by laws or city regulations. They know even better than their husbands the sort of school and hospital to which their children must go. If the children are unruly and get into trouble who would be so interested as the mother in children's courts and the methods of reformation or punishment?

HEALTH PAST FIFTY

Careful diet is of utmost importance to men and women past fifty years of age; it keeps up their strength, and the oil-fish in Scott's Emulsion is a nourishing food, a curative medicine and a sustaining tonic to regulate the functions.

It contains the medicinal fats of pure cod liver oil and science proves that they furnish twice as much energy as other foods—then too, it creates pure blood, sharpens the appetite, relieves rheumatism, strengthens the body and alleviates the ailments due to declining years.

Scott's is free from wines, alcohol or harmful drugs. Beware of substitutes.

FARM ANIMALS

KEEPING THE LITTERS APART

Few of Stronger Pigs Make Remarkable Growth by Robbing Youngsters of Their Nutriments.

It is certain that no one shelter-house is big enough for two litters of pigs. So far as ground space, ventilation and bedding is concerned, there may be room enough and to spare, but that does not mean that the two litters or more will be able to get along and do well when kept together.

Where you are keeping a number of sows and their litters together in a pen, a lot or a shelter, it becomes a struggle for the survival of the fittest. The little fellows and those inclined to be weaklings get the worst of it. They are half starved in many instances.

You begin to wonder what is the matter with the majority of the pigs in the litters. A few of the stronger ones seem to be making a remarkable growth, and if you observe them for a day or two you will see just why. They are robbing the other youngsters of their nutriment.

The sows are unable to prevent it. The stronger pigs will nurse from a half dozen sows if there are that many in the enclosure. The sows may get up and walk away and try to get rid of these prates, but that will not prevent them.

In every bunch of pigs kept in the same lot the strongest ones are certain to get a great deal more of their share of the milk. As they get bigger they get bolder and they nurse impartially from every sow in the lot. They will run from one sow to another, rooting away the weaker pigs.

Change From Whole Milk to Skim Must Be Gradual—Allow Youngster Clean, Dry Paddock.

(By PROF. A. NYSTROM, Washington.)

The mother's milk should be fed the first week, beginning when the calf is 24 to 36 hours old. The milk must be fresh and warm, about ninety-five to one hundred degrees Fahrenheit, and must always be fed from a clean pail, preferably a tin pail. A wooden pail is too hard to keep sweet and clean.

The second week whole milk from any cow may be fed, and the third week, if the calf is in good health and growing nicely, the change to skim-milk may be begun. Do not make the mistake of feeding more skim-milk simply because the cream is removed. The whole milk contains about 5 per cent protein as the calf can handle and when skim-milk is fed in large quantities the calf gets more than he can use, and as a consequence a sick calf is the result.

The change from whole milk to skim-milk must be gradual; from one-half to one and one-half pounds a day, depending upon the size and vigor of calf. To an average calf, two weeks old, we would feed about twelve pounds a day of whole milk. The first day of the third week, or when it is desirable to begin the change, the daily feed would be eleven pounds of whole milk and one pound of skim-milk; the second day, ten pounds of whole milk and two pounds of skim-milk, and so on until the complete change is made. It is just as essential to feed the skim-milk warm as the whole milk, although when the calf gets larger and stronger, six to ten weeks old, a gradual change to cold milk may be made.

Allow the calf a clean, airy paddock or box stall in which to get exercise. Give him some well cured hay, such as timothy and clover, or timothy alone, as soon as he will eat it, which will be when he is from three to four weeks old. Alfalfa in small quantities may be fed, but with this roughage there is danger of the calf's eating more than he can properly digest.

Grain may be fed as soon as he will take it, and for this purpose a mixture of bran and crushed oats or crushed oats alone is recommended.

Not So Strange After All.

You may think it strange that so many people are cured of stomach trouble by Chamberlain's Tablets. You would not, however, if you should give them a trial. They strengthen and invigorate the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Mrs. Rosie Rish, Washburn, Ind., writes: "Nothing did me the least good until I began using Chamberlain's Tablets. It is decidedly the best medicine for stomach trouble I have ever used." For sale by all dealers.

Helm's Tobacco Bill in Interest Of Growers.

A special from Washington says: Representative Harvey Helm, of Kentucky, has introduced a bill of great interest to tobacco growers. It is a measure to amend what is known as the Tobacco Census Law. That law, as it now stands, is largely ineffective and worthless, because while it provides for a census of stock on hand on Oct. 1 and April 1 of each year, it requires no statistics to be taken of the quantity of tobacco purchased and sold. "The water that has gone under the bridge," as Mr. Helm expresses it.

The Helm bill retains the present law requiring the Census Bureau to collect and publish the quantity of leaf tobacco in the hands of dealers and manufacturers and adds the following significant language:

"Together with the amounts purchased, manufactured, sold and exported, exclusive of cigar tobacco for the year preceding." This additional legislation he says will bring out the facts that are of prime interest and importance to tobacco growers.

His bill also amends the law so as to require quarterly instead of semi-annual reports, the new dates for reporting being Oct. 1, Jan. 1, April 1 and July 1 of each year.

It also changes the law so as to require tobacco exporters, as well as dealers and manufacturers to report and provides that the reports shall be sent to tobacco growers all over the country immediately after being issued. Helm is chairman of the Census Committee of the House, to which his bill will be referred, and his influence is such that it is considered highly probable that the bill will become a law, if not this session at least early in the next session of Congress.

It is just as essential to feed the skim-milk warm as the whole milk, although when the calf gets larger and stronger, six to ten weeks old, a gradual change to cold milk may be made.

Allow the calf a clean, airy paddock or box stall in which to get exercise. Give him some well cured hay, such as timothy and clover, or timothy alone, as soon as he will eat it, which will be when he is from three to four weeks old. Alfalfa in small quantities may be fed, but with this roughage there is danger of the calf's eating more than he can properly digest.

Grain may be fed as soon as he will take it, and for this purpose a mixture of bran and crushed oats or crushed oats alone is recommended.

Not So Strange After All.

You may think it strange that so many people are cured of stomach trouble by Chamberlain's Tablets. You would not, however, if you should give them a trial. They strengthen and invigorate the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Mrs. Rosie Rish, Washburn, Ind., writes: "Nothing did me the least good until I began using Chamberlain's Tablets. It is decidedly the best medicine for stomach trouble I have ever used." Improving The Breed.

One day two English farm hands were discussing the wisdom of the present generation. Said the first:

"We be wiser than our fathers was, and they were wiser than their fathers was."

The second one, after pondering a while and gazing at his companion, replied:

"Well, Garge, what a fule thy grandfather must 'a' been!"

Questions We Cannot Answer.

What kind of a stone should be used in rocking a boat?

Is there a mail order house that will ship me 100 gross half-inch buttonholes? Is a crash suit too loud to wear to church?

If I buy three yards of silk, two yards of lace and four yards of linen, how can I foot the bill?

Does the law of supply and demand cause changes in the prices of umbrellas, or do they go up and down according to the weather?

A Schoolboy's Answers.

"A triangle is a square with only three corners."

"The principal vegetable and mineral products in America are tinned meat and borking strictors."

"The temperate zone is the region where no one drinks too much."

"A corpse is a dead gentleman; a corpse is a dead lady."

"To keep milk from turning sour you should leave it in the cow."

"To the question, 'How would you divide four potatoes among five persons?' came the answer, 'Mash 'em.'"

Summer Coughs Are Dangerous.

Summer colds are dangerous. They indicate low vitality and often lead to serious Throat and Lung Troubles, including Consumption. Dr. King's New Discovery will relieve the cough or cold promptly and prevent complications. It is soothing and antiseptic and makes you feel better at once. To delay is dangerous—get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery at once. Money back if not satisfied. 50c and $1.00 bottles at your Druggist.

Lightning killed four valuable mules for A. M. Land, in Jessamine county, during an electrical storm. They were standing under a tree, which was practically uninjured, and the mules bore no marks.

Big Fair On at London This Week.

The Climax acknowledges a cordial invitation to attend the Fair at London this week. We may go for a day or two and would certainly enjoy the whole four days. A novel feature that we and few if any in this section have ever witnessed will be Johnny Green, one of the world's greatest aviators, make his airplane flight, using a 80-horse-power Curtiss biplane. The part that aeroplanes are taking now in the great European war and the interest taken in air craft all over the world, makes this feature of the fair one that will richly repay the time and expense of the trip, to say nothing of the many other enjoyable features and the cordial welcome extended to all. Railroads offer special rates. Ask your agent about them.

Annual Meeting of County and Circuit Clerks.

The annual meeting of County and Circuit Clerks of the State will be held in Harrodsburg the latter half of this week. County Clerk R. B. Terrill expects to attend. Circuit Clerk Roy C. White will not be able to attend, he thinks.

Special at Alhambra—P. A. C. Infirmary Benefit.

Mr. Sparks, the popular manager of the Alhambra, has generously offered to donate the entire proceeds of his house this afternoon, Wednesday, to the P. A. C. Infirmary. In order to make the occasion still more attractive, he will put on a new and immensely popular feature. Go and help a worthy cause. Admission prices as usual.

Small Fire.

The fire alarm sounded on Thursday morning about 3 o'clock. This is about the "sleepiest" hour in the 24, but the fire department responded promptly. It proved to be the barn, containing hay, on Third street, belonging to Mr. James Church, whose residence is on Woodland avenue. The fire was well under way when discovered and its contents being of a combustible nature, the barn was almost completely destroyed before the arrival of the fire department. The building was insured, so we have been informed.

A Berea Tragedy.

Sunday morning, about two o'clock, John Collins, the marshal of Berea, Ky., was killed and Leonard Watkins, a constable of that vicinity, was wounded, probably fatally. John Hopkins, and Andrew Hopkins, his son aged about 21 years have been arrested and lodged in the Richmond jail. Two other brothers, whose whereabouts are unknown are believed to be guilty of complicity in the killing. They are John Hopkins, Jr. and Henry Hopkins. Soon after the killing, Captain V. G. Mulliken, of Lexington, was notified and at once set out for the scene of the tragedy, accompanied by two blood hounds. The dogs soon found the way to the Hopkins home and being loosened, hastily found their way to the house and there they found Andrew Hopkins, who had supposedly thrown the dogs off the scent, by taking a stand upon a table in the house. Henry Hopkins and John Hopkins, Jr. were not seen after about midnight. It is supposed that they took their flight upon a mule and escaped in the direction of Copper Creek. John Collins and Leonard Watkins were in search of negro chicken thieves. Discovering the nearness of Hopkins gang they halted their buggy, but were instantly fired upon by the Hopkins crowd. The contents of one side of a heavily loaded shot gun, entered the temple of the marshal. Watkins was also stricken in the knee. The boy, who was driving them, made his escape. His name is not known. It appears that the life of the marshal had been threatened by John Hopkins.

Bible School Day.

Sunday last was Bible School Day in Richmond. The day will long be remembered. The Bible classes of the Christian churches of Mt. Sterling and Winchester were guests of Mr. R. E. Turley's class of this city. They came 400 strong, eight special C. & O. coaches being required for the purpose. Arriving about 9 a. m., they were met at the station by Mr. Turley's class and a band of music and escorted to the First Christian church. In the morning line there were by actual count over 500 men. Think of it 500 citizens, the best manhood of Kentucky, in a Bible class line of march! At the church Mrs. G. W. Pickles presided at the organ and Mr. R. E. Turley acted as chairman. Well, too, did they both do their parts. Hon. W. B. Smith, perhaps longer a member of the Christian church than any other man in Madison county and one of the oldest in Kentucky, in one of his happiest veins, extended a cordial welcome. He went back sixty years and more, briefly recounting the time when three faithful and determined men and scarcely a dozen pupils, on almost the same spot on which he was standing, planted the seeds of what is now the large and flourishing Richmond Sunday-school. The lesson he taught was "the power and result of working to a purpose."

Judge J. M. Benton responded on behalf of the Winchester class. His talk was much enjoyed, instructive and at times full of humor. His points put most beautifully and in strong language of what sort of "stuff" the "man who counts" is made.

Warned that the convention was running behind schedule time, Hon. D. J. Burchett, massive of form and bigger still of brain and heart, as those who know him best say, responded in a very few words in behalf of the Mt. Sterling class. He did, however, take time to put the indelible stamp of his approval upon Bible study for men as a factor in the make-up of good citizenship.

Short talks were made by Attorney D. L. Pendleton, of Winchester, and Rev. Clyde Darsie, of Mt. Sterling. Each had something to say that counted and left its impression.

By request of the chairman the superintendents of the three schools appeared upon the rostrum—Mr. Prewitt of Winchester, Mr. W. M. Strossman, of Mt. Sterling, and Mr. John Arnold, of this city. Being called upon, Mr. Prewitt made a few remarks pertinent to the occasion.

All other exercises being completed, communion was held, almost every man and woman in the house communing. After adjournment lemonade was served. During the exercises several prayers were offered, songs, led by Mr. Saxton, choir director of the Winchester church, were sung, collection taken up, "noses" counted, etc.

From Mt. Sterling there were 138 men in the Bible class, 256 from Winchester and 447 from Richmond a total of 841. Collection $59.50. It was with a delightful and soul refreshing day.

Colored Porter Dies.

Ben Moore, a well-known young colored man, died of tuberculosis Saturday, aged 32 years. He had been porter at Stockton & Son's drug store for about nine years and was highly thought of. Some three months ago the disease to which he finally succumbed had made such ravages upon his constitution that he was compelled to give up work.

Look Them Up.

On another page of this issue, Section 2, will be found some beautiful lines from the pen of Mrs. G. D. Smith, wife of Prof. Smith, of Eastern Normal. In Sec. 2 of this issue will also be found "A Call for Volunteers." Look both of these items up and read them. It'll be worth while.

CHURCH NOTES.

Dr. Quisenberry, of the Baptist church, is at home from a month's vacation and will occupy his pulpit every Sunday morning and evening. Next Sunday morning he will discuss "War." The Doctor announces that he is ready for the fall and winter campaign.

At the Methodist church on Sunday morning Dr. Horton's subject will be, "Worship God," after which there will be communion. Evening subject, "The Second Mile Service." These services close the Conference year. Monday afternoon Dr. Horton leaves for Wilmore to attend Conference. The pastor extends a cordial invitation to all to attend all services of the church.

At the Christian Science Society rooms over Perry's drug store Sunday morning the subject will be "Christ Jesus."

Tate's Creek Baptist Association meets at Red House Tuesday and today, 25th and 26th.

The following letter to the Climax from Bro. Petty explains itself: Tate's Creek Baptist Church, White Hall, Ky.

Beginning Sunday, August 30, Rev. B. F. Petty, assisted by Rev. R. L. Shirley, pastor of Deer Park Baptist church, Louisville, will begin a protracted meeting at White Hall. Bro. Shirley is not only a splendid pastor, but is one of the leading evangelists in the State. Tate's Creek church is one of the most historic in Kentucky, situated in the heart of the Bluegrass section and its membership a most magnificent people. It has a glorious past and future.

Brethren, pray for our meeting. B. F. Petty, 734 First St., Louisville, Ky.

A Newsy Letter.

The following newsy letter from some good friend came to us by mail. It bore no signature, no postoffice heading or any indication whatever as to what section of the county it was from. It was evidently an oversight, pure carelessness on the part of the sender. It is contrary to our rules to publish communications unless we know the author. We do not publish his name, but we must have it for our own protection. We publish this letter, an exception to our rule, and make the above remarks for the future guidance of all correspondents at all times. The letter follows:

To the Climax—Messdames Margaret Griggs and Shelby Masters and Sidney Shrewsbury spent Friday with Mrs. Jno. Murphy.

Clarence Shrewsbury, of Lexington, spent a couple of days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Shrewsbury.

Mr. Curran Lamb spent Sunday with his brother, Lewis Lamb.

James Tilton was with his father, Jos. Tilton, Sunday.

Luther Agee and wife and Mrs. Dora Stocker spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Agee.

Mrs. Margaret Griggs was for the past week with her daughter, Mrs. F. C. Shrewsbury.

Charles Shrewsbury, wife and children visited Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Shrewsbury Sunday afternoon.

Misses Susie Agee and Norvell Goodlett were the week-end guest of Miss Ellen Pruitt.

SILVER CREEK.

Miss Sallie Meeks has returned home, after an extended visit to relatives in Covington.

Miss Laura Underwood, of Williamsburg, is the guest of her brother, T. J. Underwood.

W. H. West, of Speedwell, visited his son, W. C. West, last week.

R. E. Anderson and Miss Madrie Farris, of Richmond, and Miss Lou Nel-on, of Frankfort, enjoyed a delightful trip to Mammoth Cave last week.

Mr. Grover Bryant and wife have the sympathy of the entire community in the loss of their baby, Anna Elizabeth, who died last Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Turner spent Saturday and Sunday with the former's parents in Lebanon, making the trip in their new auto.

Mrs. Glass and two children, of Mississippi, are the guests of her sister, Mrs. C. E. Gaines.

Miss Emma Davison, of Richmond, is visiting her little cousins, Farris and Roberta Adams.

PAINT LICK.

Mr. Mahan, of Winchester, Ind., visited Miss Stella McWhorter.

Mrs. Bowling, mother of Mrs. E. C. McWhorter, has returned to her home at London.

Frank Cates and Harry Campbell are ill with typhoid fever.

Rev. W. M. Elridge has returned from Estill Springs and is now ready to fill his pulpit.

Rev. J. V. Beagle will assist Rev. C. Ellis in a protracted meeting at Mt. Taber, beginning Sept. 7th.

Mrs. Franklin Walker and son, Stetson, are the guests of J. Wade Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard, of Harlan county, are with A. B. Wynn and wife.

Misses Noe, of Harlan county, are visiting relatives here.

Conn. Asher, of rural route 2, is seen riding in a new mail wagon.

The base ball game Saturday between Whites Station and Paint Lick resulted in a final score of 9 to 5 in favor of the home boys. The visitors put on a "league pitcher," Jim Parks, and the home boys couldn't hit him. The local team, under the management of Rice Woods, our popular cashier, has been very successful in winning games this season.

Our graded school is expected to open next Monday, Aug. 31, with George L. Waterbury, principal, Misses Johnson, Elridge and Rich, assistants.

Mrs. H. L. Wallace is on the sick list.

We have a fine pike from Paint Lick to Lancaster and when the Madison county side is improved to Paint Lick from Richmond, we will have a through turnpike. Sunday we could have counted 50 or more autos on the Richmond and Lancaster pike.

BRASSFIELD.

The Workers' Conference met Sunday evening, the 16th, at the home of M. M. Broughton. A number of instructive and entertaining talks were given.

The company also had the pleasure of hearing some good vocal and instrumental music. The guests were very quiet and orderly and all the damage that Mr. Broughton incurred was a slightly dampened bed which suddenly decided to collapse. Light refreshments were served and all report an enjoyable and entertaining evening.

A number of persons from this and surrounding vicinities enjoyed a delightful trip down the river to Boonesboro last Saturday.

Mr. Colly Ogg, one of our oldest citizens and a kind old man who was liked by all, passed away at his home near here last Wednesday night. After funeral services the remains were laid to rest in Red Hill cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Robinson have lately returned from a ten days trip to Beattyville, Cincinnati and other points. Mr. Robinson, who is our local ticket agent, was relieved in his absence by his able assistant, Mr. Ellis Broughton.

Great preparations are being made at this writing for the County Sunday-school Convention to be held at the Speedwell Christian church on Tuesday, the 25th.

George B. Todd has rented his farm near Speedwell to Jerry Chambers, of the Waco vicinity, who will take possession January 1.

Schools Open Tuesday, September 1st.

This year the Richmond city schools will open on Tuesday, the first day of September.

The Caldwell High School has added several new members to the faculty. Mr. L. S. Robbins, of Mayfield, Ky., will become principal of the High School department. Mr. Robbins is a graduate of Transylvania University and has done post-graduate work at Kentucky State University; also at Chicago University.

His last two years' engagement was as principal of Princeton, Ky., high school, from which place he comes with very fine recommendations.

The place made vacant by Miss Ruth Crow's resignation has been given to Miss Grace Anderson, of Georgetown. Miss Anderson is an honor student of Georgetown College, where she graduated with the A. B. degree in 1912. Since her graduation she has taught successfully in the department of English at Princeton high school, she was re-elected for the third year at Princeton, but declined the position that she might accept work nearer her home.

Miss Curraleen Smith, who has been for several years a most efficient teacher in the grades, will also be connected with the High School department, where, we are confident, her work will continue to prove conspicuous for its excellence.

Miss Julia Springer, of Sullivan, Ind., who received her high school training in that city, afterwards doing college work at the Indiana State University, and later in the College of Music at Cincinnati, has been chosen as supervisor of music. She will also have classes in the High School department.

The other members of the faculty of the High School department are Miss Alma Rice, who has held her position for several years and whose skill as a teacher is well known in Richmond; and Mr. J. A. Kunkel, one of the most efficient instructors in manual training in the State.

With this faculty we believe the high ranking which the colleges of Kentucky have given Caldwell High School will be maintained.

Four new teachers have been added to the grades—Misses Emma Hendren and Geneva McCarty in the 1st grades, Miss Katie May Dickerson in the 3rd and Miss Ruth Hunley in the 7th.

Miss Hunley is from Frankfort, was a student in the Normal School last year and made many friends here during her stay.

The other members of the faculty who have been connected with the school for some time, and who should be personally known to every patron of the school, are—Miss Curtis McKinney, Miss Georgia Belle Powell, Miss Mary Martin, Miss Bessie Dudley, Miss Catherine White, Miss Mabel Kunkel and Miss Sara Quisenberry.

Won at Stanford.

At the Stanford Fair last week Mr. Wm. B. Turley won two red ties on his show of hogs. On the herd he won second and ten herds were entered. He also took the red on gilt under one year.

Mr. Turley breeds the Kentucky Red Berkshire, pedigreed and registered stock, of course. This was his first show. He bought the winner in the sweepstakes ring, Garrard Prince, at a handsome figure and now has him at his farm near this city.

MARRIED

On August 20, at the residence of Eld. A. J. Tribble, the officiating minister, Mr. Tiff Turpin and Miss Laura Portwood, both of the Moberly neighborhood, were united in marriage.

Friday afternoon, the 21st inst., at the residence of Jacob S. Collins, this city, by Rev. C. K. Marshall, David S. Thomas, of Indiana, and Miss Harrie Hutchison.

Very elegant and handsome Tiffany invitations have been received by friends here announcing the approaching marriage of Lieutenant Marshall Collins, U. S. N., to Miss Katherine Temple Abby, of Kingston-on-Hudson, N. Y. Following is the invitation:

Mr. and Mrs. John Goodrich request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their niece, Miss Katherine Temple Abby to Marshall Collins, Lieutenant, Junior Grade, U. S. Navy, Tuesday, September first, at seven o'clock in the evening, at the Pronchkoekie Chapel, Kingston-on-the-Hudson, N. Y.

Immediately after the ceremony, Lieutenant Collins and his bride will leave for this city for a visit to the family of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Collins, on West Main street. The young Lieutenant is a great favorite in this city, the place of his nativity, and he and his bride will be accorded a most cordial reception.

NEWS NOTES

Wm. Arnold, 26, a prominent farmer of Mercer county, died last week, after a short illness of typhoid fever. He leaves a wife and child.

Judge John M. Elliott, formerly of Clark and Montgomery counties, died at his home in Missouri, after a long illness of Bright's disease.

Brook Morgan, a prominent young railroad man of Lexington, has been appointed vice-president of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Atlantic railroad.

Len W. Willis, 72, a prominent Jesse mine county farmer, died on the 15 inst. He was an old Confederate soldier, having enlisted in Missouri. He leaves two daughters and three sons.

Two men are under arrest in St. Louis in connection with the robbery and murder of F. H. Sober, paymaster of a refrigerating concern.

Emergency currency will be issued upon tobacco. Senator James received this assurance from Secretary McAdoo. This means that Kentucky farmers will be able to receive loans upon their crops as soon as the tobacco is deposited in a warehouse, whether the export trade is cut off or not.

No opposition is expected from the Democrats in the Senate to the nomination of Attorney General McKeynolds to the Supreme Court. The name of T. W. Gregory to succeed McKeynolds is also expected to pass.

Money which was withdrawn at the beginning of the war scare is being returned to the regular channels of trade in New York, and the whole financial outlook is improving.

Congressional investigation of charges that the Standard Oil Company is restraining trade in various oil fields was proposed in a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Chilton, of West Virginia.

Representative Barkley, of Kentucky, made an optimistic speech to the conference of men from the Ohio River Valley meeting in Washington to urge the early passage of the Rivers and Harbors bill.

Secretary Bryan sent to the Senate on last Wednesday the treaty under which Nicaragua, for $3,000,000, would cede to the United States Canal rights and naval coaling stations on her Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The steamship Victoria, from Nome, Alaska, brought $200,000 in gold bullion from the placer mines of Seward Peninsula. The gold output this year will be large, owing to the abundance of water.

Just how close the United States came to being involved in a war with Mexico as recently as two weeks ago has been revealed by high officials in the Administration.

The steamer Westland, from Antilla, Cuba, for New York, collided with the steamer Manna Hata, near Cape May, N. J. The bow of the Westland was damaged.

Two more deaths Wednesday brought the fatalities in the tragedy at Frank Lloyd's bungalow in Wisconsin up to seven.

San Bernardino, Cal., refuses to pay its pound-master $20 in fees for killing stray cats and he will sue.

The Postmaster General has commissioned James G. Hendricks as postmaster at Cantrill, Estlin, county, a new post office, named for Representative J. C. Cantrill.

Suit has been filed at Winchester for $10,000 against Dr. M. L. Myers, a dentist, the case growing out of the death of Madeline Ketchum, a six-year-old girl, who was killed, it is alleged, by the dentist's automobile.

The 20th case of bubonic plague is reported at New Orleans. Louise Welsh, a negro woman of 24 years, was removed to the isolation hospital after her illness had been diagnosed as plague. She was taken from a residence on Bienville street, where her mother died from the disease.

The Russians claim successes in outposts skirmishes on the Austrian and the German frontiers.

Confirmation has been received of the report that Emperor William has ordered resistance to any Japanese effort to seize Kian Chau.

Nine steamers have been chartered by diplomatic agents to bring Americans out of Europe. The situation of the refugees everywhere is improved.

In spite of the fact that England is very anxious to obtain foodstuffs from this country, every liner that has sailed recently has had much empty space in its hold. The American exporters are said to be very unwilling to take the risks.

HERE'S THE TUTH.

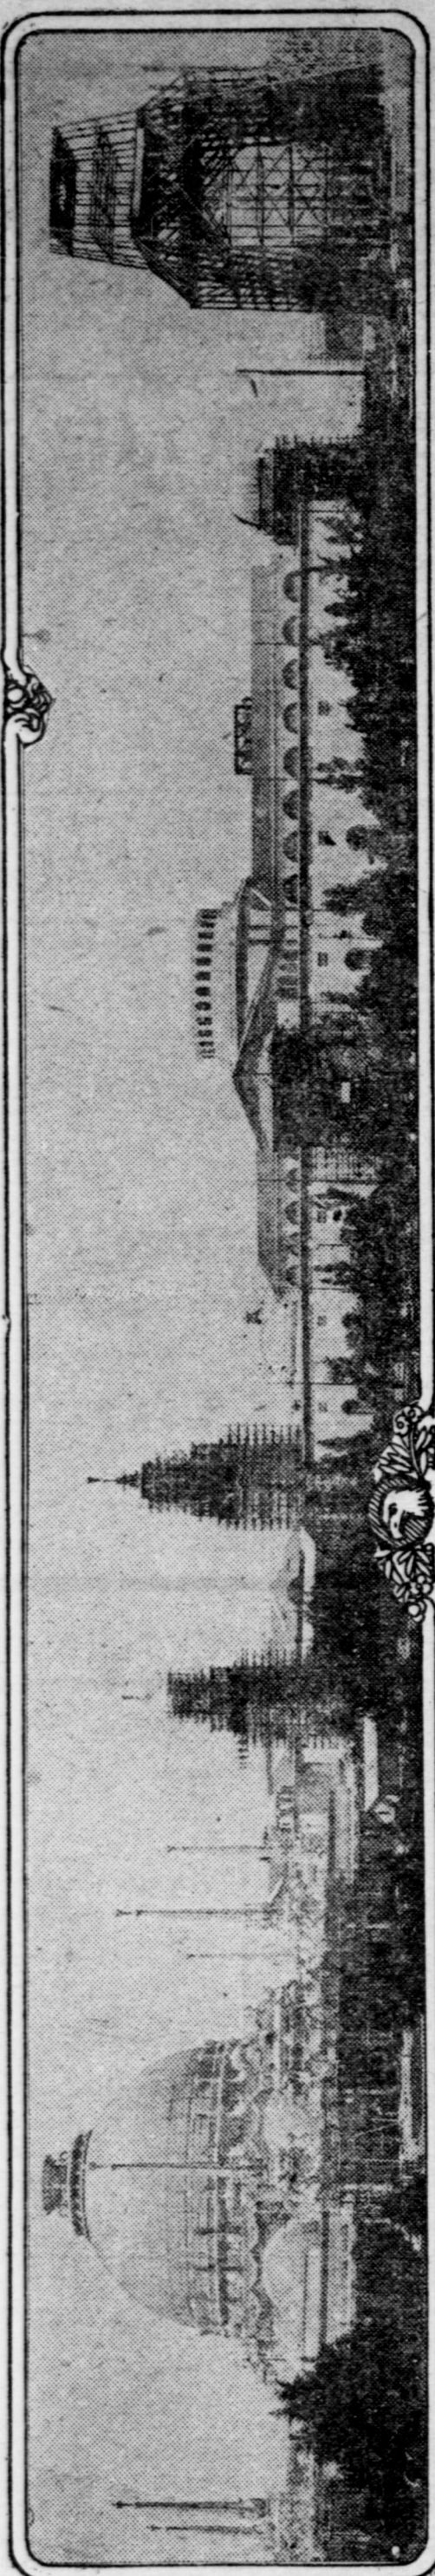

There is more truth than poetry in this pertinent observation from the Cincinnati Enquirer: "A big, home-grown, corn-fed girl may not be able to tango as gracefully as her slender hot-house sister, but she is there with bells on when it comes to doing the kitchen scrub, the dust rag dip, the broomstick balance, or the cooking canter."

Peculiar Disease.

Mr. V. A. Lear, of Garrard county, is again losing many horses by a disease so far unexplained. Several horsemen have failed to locate the trouble, and the general opinion is that the animals have gotten hold of feed containing a poisonous substance. During the past week fifteen splendid horses have died on Mr. Lear's farm. A short time ago about the same number died in the same way.

With all the wealth that Croesus had he never knew the comforts of a modern $40-a-month flat with steam heat, hot water, gas range—and a janitor.

BAR TO MOSQUITOES

Harbor No Breeding Place for the Little Pest.

Rain Water Barrels Are Abundant in Bringing Forth Hordes of Them—Yellow Fever Mosquito Is Most Dreaded of Its Species.

Washington.—The probabilities are that the most dreaded of mosquitoes, the yellow fever mosquito, originally bred in water in holes in trees, but it has so perfectly adapted itself to the human family that it has become a true domestic insect and is practically dependent for its existence upon the conditions that surround human habitations, says L. O. Howard. This adaptation is undoubtedly of very ancient development. The yellow fever mosquito is essentially a town mosquito, and the larvae are found practically exclusively in artificial receptacles in and about houses.

It can be said that its larvae are never found in swamps, in pools, or even in temporary puddles, even when these are in close proximity to houses. In the tropics the large earthen jars in which drinking water is kept are the most frequent and unfailing habitat of the larvae. Rain water barrels are abundant breeding places. Rain water tanks, so universally behind the houses in Southern cities, are the source of most abundant supplies of these mosquitoes. The larvae are also found in sagging gutters containing rain water, in tin cans, in cess pools, in horse troughs, in water-closet tanks, in the drain traps of stationary wash-stands, in urns in cemeteries, in pools accumulating under the water tanks, in water pans in the chicken yards, and in the water receptacles of grindstones.

The observations of scientists indicate that the yellow-fever mosquito breeds almost always in clear water and seldom in foul water. These observers always found it in artificial receptacles, except a few times in tree holes near houses, and in one case in a street gutter. In the last case it is probable that this larvae came into the gutter by the emptying of some household vessel. Discarded bottles and tins about houses are favorite breeding places.

The larvae, when suspended from the surface of the water to take in air, hang almost perpendicularly. They are very easily alarmed and then go quickly to the bottom, where they remain a considerable time without rising to the surface. When water is poured from a receptacle inhabited by these larvae they quickly seek the bottom and their presence may not be suspected, although the vessel is in constant use. They cling so closely to the bottom that unless the jars are rinsed and tipped up so as to empty them completely, which is not usually done, nearly all of the larvae will remain in the jars. On account of this habit they are not easily disposed of by pouring out the contents of a barrel.

The rain barrel is a most excellent breeding place for mosquitoes. If you must have one, keep it well covered with netting or screen, which admits air but keeps out the mosquitoes.

The larvae occur most frequently in clear water in rain-water barrels or in drinking water receptacles in houses, the water in such receptacles contains more or less animal matter as well as vegetable refuse, and such probably is generally the food of the larvae. The larvae feed at the bottom where they mouth over the organic sediment even when the water is very deep.

A knowledge of the egg-laying habits of the mosquito will make people more careful about leaving receptacles containing water uncovered and unprotected. Normally it appears to be the custom to lay eggs on the sides of any place containing water just above the surface of the water, so that a slight elevation of the water will submerge them. They have been found upon a leaf floating upon the water. The eggs are small and black in color. As has been stated, they are ordinarily laid about the margin of the water and here they may remain dry for long periods, hatching when reached by the water. They develop better after having been dry for some time. In fact, it seems that they will preserve their vitality for six months or even longer. Freezing does not destroy the fertility of the eggs. The duration of the egg state, when the eggs are laid upon the water, is about two days. When deposited above the water they hatch promptly when submerged.

LONDON HOSTESS HAS CARES

Society Woman of English Metropolis Entertains Whoever Wants to Attend Her Party.

London.—Of the troubles which beset the society hostess the "self-sought invitation" is the worst. Many persons seem quite lost to shame on the subject.

It would be thought that if one is not asked to Lady Dash's tea party it would seem fairly obvious he had better stay away. Still more so in the case of her "small" ball at Claridge's, where it is well known that every "card" sent must cost a substantial sum.

But as soon as the announcement appears the prospective hostess is inundated with reminders that the So and So's have come to town, likewise the Robinson Smiths and Smith Robinsons, not by any roundabout methods, such as a counter invitation, but by a plain, straightforward request to be asked to her dance. All her relations receive requests asking them to get invitations. They may be on the worst terms with her or may not have seen her for years, but as soon as she gives an entertainment all her most distant acquaintances are written to "for a card."

JOY IN NAVY; MUCH TOBACCO

Secretary of Navy Daniels to Let Men on "Dry Ships" Have Any Brand They Wish.

Washington.—General satisfaction was expressed throughout naval circles when it became known that Secretary Daniels, contrary to expectations, had authorized the retention of popular brands of tobacco and articles which it had been rumored would be denied admission to the commissary stores.

The action of the secretary following the enforcement of his order abolishing the officer's wine mess officially upset what had become a general belief among the enlisted men that they would be denied certain proprietary articles they have enjoyed.

Under the new order not only will those articles be retained, but it is intended to assure greater latitude of choice to the men by admitting additional brands of tobacco and personal commodities.

VIENNA WOMEN BAR FLIRTING

Start Crusade Against Male Flirts—Will Petition Parliament to End Pursuit by Legislation.

Vienna.—Women of Vienna have begun a crusade against male flirts. Frau Marianne Hainisch, founder and president of the Austrian Women's clubs, drew up a slashing indictment of the offenders at a recent meeting, which resulted in a resolution to petition parliament to make an end of the flirts' pursuit by legislation.

Today girls here are constantly exposed to the impertinence of men. If a policeman is asked to protect them he only laughs, or perhaps arrests the girl.

The petition, which was drafted at the close of the meeting, will be presented to parliament in the June session. Several hundred thousand signatures are attached to it. The Austrian Women's clubs do not feel over-confident of its being adopted.

Buyers To Share In Profits Lower Prices On Ford Cars

Effective from August 1, 1914, to August 1, 1915, and guaranteed against any reduction during that time:

Touring Car	-	-	$490
Runabout	-	-	440
Town Car	-	-	690

F. O. B. Detroit, all cars fully equipped. (In the United States of America only)

Further, we will be able to obtain the maximum efficiency in our factory production, and the minimum cost in our purchasing and sales departments if we can reach an output of 300,000 cars between the above dates.

And should we reach this production, we agree to pay as the buyer's share from $40 to $60 per car (on or about August 1, 1915) to every retail buyer who purchases a new Ford car between August 1, 1914, and August 1, 1915.

"Chicken" Escapes

Clarence Adams, better known as the "Chicken," who has been making a series of escapes from the Danville work house during the past three or four years, escaped for about the fifteenth time yesterday afternoon. He was working at the quarry on the Stanford pike and when an opportunity offered he used a sledge hammer to break off the ball and chain. Henry Jenkins did the same thing and both escaped. The escape was made just as the rock crusher was being started and Henry and the Chicken had gotten 200 yards away when discovered. Supt. Newby has not yet captured the pair, but a close watch is being kept.—Advocate.

A Woodland Fancy.

From my bungalow porch I gaze into the deep, green woods; Not at the tree I gaze, but at the dreamy haze between. That haze is a wood-nymph,—she beckons — she beckons me; Gladly I follow o'er log and tree-tangled brush, The dew drops cling in vain to her fine, floating draperies; The brook babbles uselessly to one so coy—coquettish. She ignores the courtly bow of a stately poplar; She eludes the outstretched arms of a fond, caressing beech. Farther and farther still she glides—madly I still pursue; Longingly I cry "O, Illusia! Illusia!" Mockingly she answers "O, Deludio! Deludio!" And vanishes among the sun beams up a grassy slope! —Mrs. G. D. SMITH.

Change For The Better.

Grace Margaret Gould, fashion writer in the September Woman's Home Companion, presents the following suggestions for fall styles, and begins with this comment:

Good friends, a change for the better has taken place in the fashions!

The American woman this fall will be permitted to wear clothes that fit the figure and take real steps like a sensible human being, as she has honestly in her heart longed to do, appearances to the contrary notwithstanding.

Let me tell you exactly what has happened: The spineless woman has become a stately creature. That tired feeling has retired and loose and careless has made way for lithe and careful.

The slouch has retreated, as it is the very nature of a slouch to retreat, while the new style, trim and erect, has marched into victory.

Women are to have backbones this season. They are to have arms again, clearly defined ones, I mean.

Hips are coming into their own. They are to be the fashion.

And the waist line is to put in an appearance again. She dear old waist line, which brings back memories of the prim, tight basque, and encircling arms of an affectionate husband.

But perhaps the best news of all I am keeping for the last. Women are to walk—really walk, again! Little mincing steps and odd, curious jumps are no longer the pitiful substitute for walking.

Skirts are to be wider. The slit has gone. And, after all, when you come to think of it, it was a pretty hard task to combine one's self-respect and a slit skirt!
